13 Arrested In Maryland Racial Tiff

Governor Urged To Provide More Police Protection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An integrationist organization said Sunday police protection of college students demonstrating against racial segregation in Maryland Saturday was inadequate, and asked Gov. Tawes and State Police Superintendent Cary Jarman to do something about it.

The Civic Interest Group (CIG) of Maryland said in a telegram it was "appalled and concerned about the continued laxity and the dereliction of duty on the part of the Maryland law enforcement agencies."

Thirteen persons were arrested during the demonstrations at segregated restaurants and theaters. Police reported at least three persons were assaulted by a group of hecklers in Glen Burnie, a suburb of Baltimore.

Two Girls Attacked

Two of those attacked during a demonstration at a Glen Burnie theater were girls.

Jennifer Jones, 16, a Negro from Chester, Pa., was treated at South Baltimore General Hospital for exhaustion after a gang chased her for about a mile to the John Wesley Methodist Church. She said she was struck in the head from behind.

The other girl, Mary McAdoo, 20, from Rhode Island College, said she was hit on the head and back when teen-agers pelted her with stones while she was walking with a group on Crain Highway.

David Price, 25, a student at Yale University, collapsed on Crain Highway after a youth struck him in the head and stomach. Price said another heckler hit him in the head.

State Police arrested one youth, but Price—unable to identify his assailants—did not press charges.

One of the 13 persons arrested in connection with demonstrations Saturday was McKinley C. Olson, 30, reporter-photographer for the York, Pa., Gazette.

Olson and six others were charged with trespassing at a restaurant near Adelphi, Md., on U.S. 1.

A spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), co-sponsor of the mass protest, said Olson "... was running all around trying to take pictures and just wouldn't get out of the restaurant."

Six demonstrators also were arrested in a restaurant near La Plata, Md., in Charles County. Police said they refused to leave after the owner, Joseph Gardiner, requested that they do so.

Other Demonstrations

All of those arrested were released under bond of $100 each, and hearings on the charges were scheduled later this week.

Other demonstrators invaded restaurants and lunch counters in Glen Burnie, Hyattsville, Chestertown, Annapolis and Laurel, but no incidents or arrests were reported.

Still more demonstrators fanned out along U. S. 40, U. S. 1 and U. S. 301 in their efforts to win equality in places of public accommodations. Many came from northeastern colleges and universities.

5 Coeds Killed In Car Crash

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Five coeds from Duke University were killed early Sunday when their car went out of control on a rain-slick highway near here and collided with two semi-trailer trucks.

The dead were identified as Jane Lee Stevens Livingston, N. Y., Karen L. Widing Rochester, N. Y., Ann Elizabeth Wright, Miami, N. Y., and Elizabeth Kyrilbaum Broadalbin, N. Y., and Charlene Hartline Cincinnati. All were 21 years old. Florida highway patrol Lt. John A. Conroy said the accident happened on U. S. Highway 17, about 20 miles north of here.

He said the car started to slide as it passed a northbound truck driven by Woodrow Wilson Reynolds of Ellerbe, N. C., then spun into the south-bound lane and collided with a truck driven by Hinson C. Bracewell of Jacksonville.

The car bounced back into the north lane where it was struck by the truck driven by Reynolds. Conroy said all five of the coeds were thrown from the smashed vehicle.

Goldberg Opens Talks Today On Shipping Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Leaders in the 17-day-old West Coast shipping strike will meet with Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg in Washington today for talks aimed at ending the dispute.

Goldberg Saturday sent telegrams to the Pacific Maritime Association (PMA) and the three striking unions, asking them to a Washington conference "in view of the serious effect of the shutdown."

A spokesman for the PMA said "we will attend" and Morris Weisberger, speaking for the sailors' union of the Pacific, Marine firemen and Marine Cooks and Stewards said:

"The three unions have received wires from Secretary of Labor Goldberg. They have conferred and advise they will attend."

Senate Hearings Open On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate hearings open today on President Kennedy's tax revision program amid indications he will have to use heavy pressure to preserve what he won from the House.

Both conservatives and liberals on the Senate Finance Committee, including chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., are lining up against a key provision to provide tax relief for business.

Others on the committee have expressed opposition to the second big provision of the measure which would withhold taxes on interest and dividends.

Kennedy had to send his lieutenants to the House to work behind the scenes and he made an 11th hour appeal to save these provisions. He won a smashing victory when the House approved the bill 219 to 196 Thursday.

Liz Taylor Visits Seaside Spot With Richard Burton

ROME (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton mad their second public appearance together during the past 48 hours Sunday when they took advantage of sunny Roman spring weather to visit a seaside restaurant.

Miss Taylor, whose husband singer Eddie Fisher is in the United States, brought along three of her children. Burton, whose wife and two children are in London, sent them home in his car. He later took another car home from the restaurant at Torvaianica, about 20 miles southwest of Rome. A swarm of over-eager photographers attempted to force

Orval Faubus Will Not Seek Fifth Term

Over Dozen Men Expected To Enter Arkansas Contest

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The governor's race in Arkansas became a wide-open affair Sunday with Gov. Orval E. Faubus' decision not to seek a fifth term.

Faubus, without naming an heir-apparent in his announcement, predicted at least 10 to 20 people will be willing to fill the gap in Arkansas politics made by his move.

And nearly a dozen of them, within hours of his announcement, have either strengthened vows to seek the governorship or become new faces in the post-decision crowd.

Only two persons—Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., and Kenneth Coffelt, a Little Rock attorney—have committed themselves to the race.

But Arkansas' Atty. Gen. Frank Holt revealed immediately following the governor's speech that, "I have nurtured an ambition to serve my state as governor since boyhood."

Others who at this point appear likely to be on the summer Democratic ballot are former Gov. Sid McMath, a former state chamber of commerce president, a sheriff, a college official, an insurance executive, a printing firm executive and a member of the State Commerce Commission.

Faubus' withdrawal may also open new avenues of approach to an anxious Republican party in the state.

But Winthrop Rockefeller, Republican national committee-man from Arkansas, who has always refrained from comment on developments in the state's Democratic party, said of Faubus' move, "I feel that his decision does not change the position of the Republican party, its thinking or its program."

The governor made it clear in his announcement that, though he needed rest now, he may in the future seek office again.

Faubus made his temporary farewell to politics with a warning that the integration problem, which catapulted him to fame, may never be solved.

The governor said he was continually irritated because integrationists had expected Little Rock to solve quickly a problem that had not been solved since the dawn of recorded time.

337 Begin Peace Corps Training

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Peace Corps announced Sunday a record 337 volunteers would begin training this week for projects in seven countries.

The corps said in an announcement that the previous high occurred during the week of July 20 to 27 when 249 persons underwent training for three projects.

More than 1,200 men and women are now in training or serving overseas on 20 countries, the announcement said.

The new training sessions will prepare volunteers for assignments in Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, Chile, Venezuela, Jamaica and the Philippines.

Training will take place at the Research Institute for the Study of Man, New York; Pennsylvania State University, University Park; The University of Oklahoma, Norman; the Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vt. and the Peace Corps field training center in Arecibo, Puerto Rico.

Defense Dept. Closing Out 98 Installations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department has closed out, 98 military installations—or is in the process of doing so—since the administration announced plans a year ago for eliminating obsolete or no longer needed facilities.

Twenty-five government owned plants are included. The property originally cost $419,500,000 and involved 37,762 acres of land, now released from military use, the department says. The estimate of employees, civilian and military, affected is only 4,040. Many of the installations were small and little used in recent years. Personnel were transferred to others jobs in some cases.

Cuba Invaders Trial Hits Slight Snag

HAVANA (AP)—The trial of 1,179 Cuban invaders may not be going as smoothly as its sponsors planned. A star witness seems to be balking.

This thin clue appeared in the Havana press Sunday as the mass trial of the prisoners taken in last April's thwarted invasion on the Bay of Pigs prepared to resume Monday after a weekend recess.

The controlled press is the only source of news of what goes on at the trial in Principe Prison, the old fort perched atop a hill in Havana. Western correspondents are barred.

When the trial opened last week, the press said all defendants pleaded guilty to unspecified charges.

Among the prisoners was Pablo Organvilles or Organvilles. The Cuban press said he had confessed he was an agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and had denounced the CIA and all its works on television after his capture.

Organvilles' picture showed up in the Sunday papers. The caption recounted what he has been quoted as saying previously and added that, "He now ridiculously tries to deny himself."

That would indicate he has changed his story. The asserted role of the CIA in the invasion is a key part of the trial.

Milton, Fla. Digs Out After Tornado

15 Known Dead; 250 Homes Damaged

MILTON, Fla. (AP)—Stunned Milton residents, aided by 1,200 relief workers, went about the job Sunday of cleaning the debris from a devastating tornado which killed 15 and caused an estimated $1.5 million property damage.

National Guardsmen closed off the residential area in North Milton, hardest hit by Saturday's twister, so the cleanup could proceed without interference from sightseers.

Bulldozers worked under floodlights throughout the night raking the wreckage into huge piles. Utility trucks poured into the city from surrounding areas to get broken communication and power lines restored.

Residents of the stricken area, sad-faced and weeping, returned Sunday morning to poke through the ruins for small items of sentimental value. One aged woman who had lost a relative in the storm had to be led away by friends when she broke into sobs.

Bright sunlight aided the rescue operations and brought into full focus the devastation caused when the tornado smashed a path 400 feet wide and seven miles long through the residential area of this town of 4,000 about 30 miles northeast of Pensacola.

The list of dead remained unchanged at 15. Three persons were in critical condition in a Pensacola hospital and 23 others were being treated in hospitals here and in Pensacola. Another 54 injured were treated and released and authorities said scores of others were given first aid or treated by their physicians without going to a hospital.

The sad task of burying the dead will get under way today and continue throughout the week.

The tornado which hit about 9 a.m. followed the same path as a Jan. 5 twister which slammed into Crestview, 30 miles east of Milton, killing one and causing an estimated $2.5 million property damage.

Volunteers Mobilized

A big assist in the emergency operation came from Whiting Field, a Navy installation immediately north of the storm area, which sent men and equipment into the devastated area.

Joining in the mammoth job of relief operations were volunteers from a dozen fire departments in nearby towns, the well-outfitted Escambia County Civil Defense unit and workers from the Florida Forest Service, Conservation Department and Highway Patrol.

The American Red Cross opened emergency quarters in the county courthouse and worked throughout the night providing for the needs of an estimated 400 homeless.

The Rev. Robert Cowling, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church and disaster chairman for the Red Cross, estimated about 250 homes were destroyed or severely damaged.

Most of the homeless were taken in by neighbors or placed in a newly vacated housing project at Whiting Field.

As was the case at Crestview, the tornado struck without warning and few reported seeing the dark funnel-shaped cloud approach the city. Skies were extremely dark and a heavy rain was falling at the time.

Pro-Nasser Civilians Open Two Attacks

Homs And Aleppo Scenes Of Riots Against Troops

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Pro-Nasser civilians reportedly battled government troops in the commercial center of Homs Sunday and demonstrations against the new Syrian junta erupted in Syria's second city of Aleppo.

The army was reported to have restored order Sunday night. The outbreak of violence was the first since military chiefs overthrew Syria's conservative regime in a bloodless coup March 23.

There was no word on the extent of the fighting but reliable reports reaching Beirut said at least five soldiers were killed in Homs, 100 miles north of Damascus.

March On Town Hall

The fighting began when supporters of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic marched on the Homs town hall carrying placards bearing pictures of Nasser.

The Beirut newspaper L'Orient said troops fired to disperse the crowd and that the demonstrators returned the fire, killing at least five soldiers.

Reports said the junta dispatched a delegation to Homs, which persuaded the dissident leaders to come to terms.

The demonstrations in Aleppo, a city of more than 350,000 only 25 miles from the Turkish border, were in support of the ousted regime of President Nazim el Koudsi and Premier Marouf Dawalibi—both Aleppo men.

Informants said the Aleppo demonstrations were less serious than the Homs uprising.

Throughout most of the day, Damascus radio broadcast appeals to the people of Aleppo to support the junta and close ranks "before the dangers caused by the agents of imperialism."

The broadcasts added to the mystery of what was going on by claiming that "Israel and imperialism" were planning a fresh attack on Syria.

U. A. R. Offers Support

In Cairo, U.A.R. officials promptly announced support of Syria against external aggression.

U.A.R. State Minister Abdel Kader Hatim said in a statement that, "Syrian authorities are encountering external danger and the U.A.R. will place all its military resources to repel any aggression against Syrian lands."

For a time large sections of northern Syria were sealed off as the army moved to restore order. Only last Thursday, the army lifted a six-hour curfew, apparently confident it was firmly in control after the coup.

The military leaders said they had ousted Dawalibi, his Cabinet and Koudsi because of land reform reversals, pork-barrel tactics and infiltration of the government by imperialist agents.

Another 54 injured were treated and released and authorities said scores of others were given first aid or treated by their physicians without going to a hospital.

The sad task of burying the dead will get under way today and continue throughout the week.

The tornado which hit about 9 a.m. followed the same path as a Jan. 5 twister which slammed into Crestview, 30 miles east of Milton, killing one and causing an estimated $2.5 million property damage.

Volunteers Mobilized

A big assist in the emergency operation came from Whiting Field, a Navy installation immediately north of the storm area, which sent men and equipment into the devastated area.

Joining in the mammoth job of relief operations were volunteers from a dozen fire departments in nearby towns, the well-outfitted Escambia County Civil Defense unit and workers from the Florida Forest Service, Conservation Department and Highway Patrol.

The American Red Cross opened emergency quarters in the county courthouse and worked throughout the night providing for the needs of an estimated 400 homeless.

The Rev. Robert Cowling, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church and disaster chairman for the Red Cross, estimated about 250 homes were destroyed or severely damaged.

Most of the homeless were taken in by neighbors or placed in a newly vacated housing project at Whiting Field.

As was the case at Crestview the tornado struck without warning and few reported seeing the dark funnel-shaped cloud approach the city. Skies were extremely dark and a heavy rain was falling at the time.

Pro-Nasser Civilians Open Two Attacks

Homs And Aleppo Scenes Of Riots Against Troops

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Pro-Nasser civilians reportedly battled government troops in the commercial center of Homs Sunday and demonstrations against the new Syrian junta erupted in Syria's second city of Aleppo.

The army was reported to have restored order Sunday night. The outbreak of violence was the first since military chiefs overthrew Syria's conservative regime in a bloodless coup March 28.

There was no word on the extent of the fighting but reliable reports reaching Beirut said at least five soldiers were killed in Homs, 100 miles north of Damascus.

March On Town Hall

The fighting began when supporters of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic marched on the Homs town hall carrying placards bearing pictures of Nasser.

The Beirut newspaper L'Orient said troops fired to disperse the crowd and that the demonstrators returned the fire, killing at least five soldiers.

Reports said the junta dispatched a delegation to Homs, which persuaded the dissident leaders to come to terms.

The demonstrations in Aleppo, a city of more than 350,000 only 25 miles from the Turkish border, were in support of the ousted regime of President Nazim el Koudsi and Premier Marouf Dawalibi—both Aleppo men.

Informants said the Aleppo demonstrations were less serious than the Homs uprising.

Throughout most of the day, Damascus radio broadcast appeals to the people of Aleppo to support the junta and close ranks "before the dangers caused by the agents of imperialism."

The broadcasts added to the mystery of what was going on by claiming that "Israel and imperialism" were planning a fresh attack on Syria.

U. A. R. Offers Support

In Cairo, U.A.R. officials promptly announced support of Syria against external aggression.

U.A.R. State Minister Abdel Kader Hatim said in a statement that, "Syrian authorities are encountering external danger and the U.A.R. will place all its material resources to repel any aggression against Syrian lands."

For a time large sections of northern Syria were sealed off as the army moved to restore order.

Only last Thursday, the army lifted a six-hour curfew, apparently confident it was firmly in control after the coup.

The military leaders said they had ousted Dawalibi, his Cabinet and Koudsi because of land reform reversals, pork-barrel tactics and infiltration of the government by imperialist agents.

Defense Dept. Closing Out 98 Installations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department has closed out 98 military installations—or is in the process of doing so—since the administration announced plans a year ago for eliminating obsolete or no longer needed facilities.

Twenty-five government owned plants are included.

The property originally cost $419,500,000 and involved 37,762 acres of land, now released from military use, the department says. The estimate of employees, civilian and military, affected is only 4,040. Many of the installations were small and little used in recent years. Personnel were transferred to others jobs in some cases.

The abandonment of the installations, the department calculates, will save an estimated $20,800,000 annually.

The cases, including acquisition cost, acres involved and number of employees:

Swiss Voters Favor Idea Of Full Atomic Armament

GENEVA (AP)—Swiss voters decided in a nationwide referendum Sunday that this neutral country should have the right to atomic armament.

The male electorate—women have no right to vote on federal matters—turned down nearly 2-1 a left-wing constitutional amendment to ban nuclear weapons on Swiss territory.

The vote count gave 286,858 votes for the amendment, 537,387 against it.

Four cantons—states—expressed themselves against nuclear arms. These were the Italian-speaking canton of Ticino, and the French-speaking cantons of Neuchâtel, Vaud and Geneva.

site of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

Most of the other larger Swiss towns—Bern, Luzern and Zurich—voted in favor of nuclear weapons.

Specifically, the vote was on a constitutional amendment to ban production, importation and use of atomic arms on Swiss territory. The amendment was supported by the left wing of the Swiss Social Democratic party and by the Communists. The government, both houses of Parliament and all other political parties had come out against it.

Opponents of the amendment followed the government's line of reasoning that it would be wrong to deprive the nation of the right to use the most efficient weapons to defend her traditional neutrality and independence, if and when the time comes.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Johns Hopkins University, having met the terms of a previous $6 million Ford Foundation grant, has received word it will be given an additional $6 million incentive grant.

Under the terms of the first grant in 1960, the university was given until June 30, 1963, to raise $12 million on a 2-to-1 matching basis.

A university trustee and the president of the Johns Hopkins Fund, Eli Frank Jr., said the $12 million goal already had been reached through gifts from individuals and other foundations.

BALTIMORE (AP)—An electric workers local, expelled from its parent union last year for striking without permission, has been ordered reinstated by U. S. District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen.

Thomsen, however, held the decree in abeyance pending an appeal by the parent union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, to the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

After revoking the charter of Baltimore Local 28, the IBEW chartered Local 24.

BALTIMORE (AP)—State forestry officials hope the rain during the weekend will reduce the danger of woods and brush fires.

Hundreds of brush fires kept volunteer fire companies busy in several counties last week.

William H. Johnson, assistant state forester in charge of fire controls, said dry weather had created last week's fire danger. He appealed to Marylanders to avoid burning trash or brush outdoors.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland motorists will be permitted to display their old license plates until midnight Monday, but after that time they may be subject to another kind of tag—a police summons—if 1962 plates have not been installed.

The Department of Motor Vehicles extended by 48 hours the deadline for 1962 registrations after noting that many Marylanders had failed to meet the original deadline of midnight Saturday.

The department said new tags would be sold Monday at its headquarters in Baltimore and branch offices in Frederick and Anne Arundel counties.

Rail Strike Termed Not Imminent

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top rail union chief said Sunday a national railroad strike is not imminent. But he warned that new contract negotiations starting Monday will not be confined to recommendations by the presidential railroad commission.

H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, said he anticipates management will insist at the Chicago negotiations that the bargaining talks remain inside the bounds of the recommendations—which have been vigorously attacked by rail unions.

Gilbert, speaking on a recorded radio interview program, said "there never has been any agreement that we would bargain from the report of the commission." And, he added, if management holds to such a position, "I think many unfortunate incidents will arise for which the railroads will be responsible."

He did not explain what sort of "incidents" he anticipates nor would he say what issues outside the commission report will be introduced by union negotiators.

Gilbert devoted much of the program to attacks on various phases of the commission's recommendations especially those which would eliminate firemen from engine crews.

Gov. Tawes Orders Probe Of Insurance Firms That Deny Storm Damage Claims

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has asked the State Insurance Commissioner to make a "full scale inquiry" into the reported refusal of insurance companies to reimburse property owners for damage in the recent coastal storm.

"I have been told that the companies take the position that the damage was caused by water, a hazard not covered under the usual policies, rather than by wind which is normally insured against," Tawes said in a letter to Commissioner F. Douglass Sears. "I flew over the disaster area just after the storm and saw this unprecedented devastation with my own eyes. It is quite apparent that the great destruction of the beach front properties was caused by waves propelled by high winds breaking over them or undermining their foundations."

"I have received reports that the winds approached hurricane force, up to 60 or 70 miles per hour, and in some places winds of this force must have caused damage to stores, dwellings, apartments and other property."

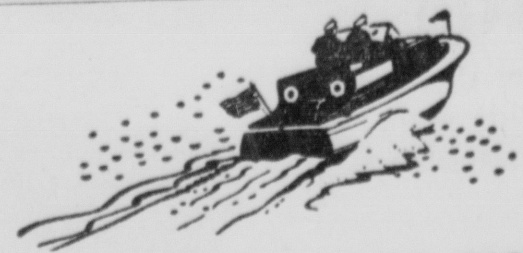

"Therefore, I am requesting you to investigate this matter at the earliest possible moment. Our people want to know whether their insurance companies will accept all or part of this loss on behalf of their policy holders."

Tawes said while the probe is being made by the insurance commissioner, whose office licenses and supervises companies operating in Maryland, that it would be well for beach property owners to file their claims promptly. "Otherwise, they may find themselves barred by 'limitations' clauses in their policies," he said.

"Many of our citizens owning beach properties have lost their life savings in this worst storm of the century," Tawes said in the

Collective Farm Plan Concluded

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Hungarian Communist party Central Committee says collectivization of agriculture has been completed in Hungary. Radio Budapest reported Sunday. The broadcast said 95 per cent of farm land has been collectivized. The remaining five per cent apparently will remain in private hands. Farm collectivization now has been concluded in all Communist-ruled East European countries except Poland, which has practically no collectivization.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My nothing drastic, but we'll have husband holds one of the top positions in a large firm. He is a vice president, a title of which he is very proud.

Last week he came home half ill and shaken. He is being demoted. He will retain his vice presidency but he will be relieved of part of his responsibility. On May 1, there will be a salary cut. This means we must make some changes in our way of living—

DEAR WESTCHESTER: I agree with you that the children should be told, and the sooner the better.

The notion that shielding children against unpleasantness and discomfort makes them secure and happy is pure banana oil. Demotions, defeat and setbacks are a part of living and children learn how to face failure and rise above it.

One of the major ills of our time is the worship of phony symbols of success—such as vice presidencies. Children do not love and respect a father because he is a big shot in the firm. They love and respect him because he is kind, fair, and worthy. A company demotion will not impair your husband's standing with his loved ones. Please tell him so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ten years ago I offended a woman of whom I am terribly fond. My sin was not a malicious one. It was a combination of thoughtlessness and a lack of tact.

I sent her a note of apology. She did not respond. I later sent a bouquet of flowers. She did not acknowledge them. A few months later I saw her at a social gathering and she turned her back on me.

For ten years I've been trying to patch things up, Ann, but without success. I still count her as a loyal and beloved friend. Please help me.

MRS. TULSA: Something is wrong with your count, Dearie. If after a decade of trying to "patch things up" this woman is unable to be civil to you, I earnestly hope you will stop waving your battered little olive branch.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a few months I will be graduating from high school. I must decide whether or not to send announcements.

My mother is dead set against the idea. She says it is just a back-handed way of asking for a gift. According to her anyone who is close and WANTS to send a gift, does not need an announcement as a reminder.

I say an announcement is just to announce something. What would you think about sending an announcement to close friends and relatives and writing on the bottom "This is not a request for a gift. It is just to let you know that I am graduating?"

My mother is against this, too. She said we'd let you decide.

—GRADUATION TROUBLES
DEAR TROUBLES: I am against all announcements. Unless you can invite a person to something, an announcement looks too much like an invoice.

Relatives and close friends are aware of graduation, births, weddings and other important occasions. They don't have to be informed by a mailing piece.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

(C) 1962 By The Chicago Tribune

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ A 6 ♥ 8 7 4 3 ♦ Q J 10 6 5 ♣ K 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♠

3 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Three spades. The cue bid will serve a double purpose. It will enable partner to stop at three no trump if that is the limit of his ambitions, or it may induce him to try for slam if his hand is so suited. You will be pleased to cooperate inasmuch as you have the equivalent of an opening bid now that the king of clubs has been promoted.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ J 6 4 ♦ Q 10 9 6 4 ♠ A K 9 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What is your response?

A—Three clubs. This hand offers distinct slam possibilities dependent on partner's holding in spades. The jump shift, therefore, is clearly indicated. This is the strongest possible passed hand partner could expect and surely you will settle for no less than game in diamonds.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ A J ♥ Q 4 ♦ Q J 8 6 3 ♠ Q 9 7 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ 2 ♠

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Four clubs. A mere return to three clubs would be grossly inadequate. Partner has shown a hand of reasonably good proportions and your hand has the strength of an opening bid.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable,

you hold:

♠ A J 10 7 3 ♥ 6 2 ♦ Q 8 3 ♠ K 10 9 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ 1 NT

2 ♠ Pass Double Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. This is a rather light holding with which to leave the double in, but we can't be sure which suit to bid and even if East should make his contract it wouldn't be game.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ 6 5 ♥ K Q J 6 3 ♦ A 9 8 2 ♠ A Q

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass 1 NT

Double Pass 2 NT Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Three diamonds. Your hand is slightly unbalanced and you should make some effort to play at a suit contract. If partner takes you back to three hearts, bid four. If his call is three no-trump, pass.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ 9 10 4 ♦ K Q 10 8 6 2 ♠ K 6 4 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. No thought should be given to bidding three diamonds. Partner has indicated a probable six card suit since he didn't like no trump and failed to show another suit on his rebid. Furthermore he might easily have a singleton diamond.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ Q 9 7 3 ♥ K 10 5 ♠ A K J 10 8 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

5 ♠ Pass 5 ♦ Double

What do you bid now?

A—Seven spades. This should be a pretty safe investment. East's double of five diamonds indicates that little of partner's values are in that suit. The spades are solid and either your heart holding solidifies partner's or your clubs can be set up for discards.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ K 9 6 5 ♥ Q J 10 9 3 ♦ Q 4 2 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

2 ♠ Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. If partner had wanted to hear from you he would have doubled one club. This is strictly a business double and you have no reason to run.

What To Do When You Can't Sleep

Emotional upsets . . . real worries . . . illness . . . stimulation . . . or, rather, OVER-stimulation at late hours are the usual conditions that trigger off insomnia, called mild when it occurs just occasionally. Missing a few hours sleep—or even an entire night—once a week or so should bring no harm to a normal, healthy adult or child. Fretting over it may cause greater upset than the loss of sleep.

Severe and constant insomnia which springs from more serious and deep-rooted physical or psychological origins belong in the doctor's province, may even require psychotherapy. When this kind of treatment is costly or difficult to arrange, chronic insomnia may be tempted to overdo the simple means for self-treatment available to mild insomniacs. The after-effects and side-effects from over-dosing with medications can be tricky; there is also the added problem of delay in dealing with the organic trouble or neurosis causing the inability to sleep. They must be uncovered and corrected first before the insomnia can be cured.

Women with severe insomnia should seek their cures under professional guidance. And they should know when it's time to talk things over with their doctors. When they've tried all the popular sleep inducements, with none of them work—the moment for making that appointment for a complete examination is at hand.

Happily for most women, those for whom insomnia is just a sometimes thing, the easiest device for inducing drowsiness DO work. They're most effective when you have them at hand, ready to put to use just at bedtime, instead of putting them off until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning when you've reached the point of despair. Impossible, you say? Take heart!

More often than not, you can be prepared in time to ward off your bout of insomnia. Think awhile. Can't you predict in advance the time when you're least likely to be relaxed at bedtime? Of course you can . . . by the way you feel, physically . . . by the day's growing mood . . . by the kind of things you've faced to the next day. Keyed-up, riding high on the crest of a second layer of energy, you are your own best clue to breaks in your sleeping pattern.

City Election In Frostburg Due Tomorrow

Five Incumbents Seek New Terms

FROSTBURG — Frostburg citizens will go to the polls between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. tomorrow to elect a mayor and four councilmen from among three candidates for mayor and seven for council.

The five successful candidates will begin two-year terms on Monday, May 7.

Mayor Joseph James faces two opponents in his bid for a fourth term. His opponents are Robert Whetstone and John Bone.

Mr. James is the 48th mayor of Frostburg. If successful, he will match the record set by Mayor Samuel R. Tiddy, who served eight one-year terms, from 1913 through 1919 and again from 1924 through 1928. He is married and the father of three children and is employed at the Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory.

Mr. Whetstone, who is making his first attempt at a city office, has been employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company for 16 years. He is married and the father of one child. Mr. Bone also is making his initial try at public office. He operates a tavern and drives a school bus. He is married and the father of two children.

The incumbent commissioners, all seeking re-election, are Herbert Loar, finance commissioner; William Preston, street commissioner; James P. Kenney, water commissioner, and William R. Goebel, police commissioner.

Their opposition comes from Ludwig Neilson, D. Michael Miller and George G. Kennedy.

Mr. Loar, now completing his third term, owns and operates a market on West Main Street. He has had 25 years banking experience and has been a director of the Equitable Savings and Loan Society for 28 years. He is married and has two daughters.

Mr. Preston, who began his service as an appointee, is seeking his third term. He is a salesman for mechanic tools, is married and has two children. Mr. Kenney has served two terms in his present position. An employee at ABL, he is a former water superintendent for Frostburg. He is married and the father of six children. Mr. Goebel, who was appointed to his present position June 22, 1959, operates a plumbing and heating business in Frostburg. He is married and the father of two children.

Mr. Neilson is a supply and building contractor, having been one of the founders of the Neilson Brothers Supply Company. He is married and the father of two children. Mr. Miller, who is making his first try for public office, has resided here the past 24 years. He is active in various fraternal organizations. Mr. Kennedy, a Frostburg resident for 48 years, is seeking his first political office. He has worked at Layman's Hardware Store for 28 years and has been active in youth and fraternal organizations. He is married and the father of two children.

All Frostburg voters are urged to cast ballots at one of the three polling places. Ward I voting place will be in the Fire Hall on Water Street. This ward includes all of Frostburg from the west side of Water Street to the city limits. Ward 2 voters will vote in the Eagle Building on East Main Street. This ward includes all territory between the east side of Water Street and the west side of Bowery. Ward 3 runs from the east side of Bowery Street to the east city limits and will vote in the Goldworthy Building at 205 East Main Street. Voting machines will be used at all three polling places.

Moorefield Presbyterian Church Ends Celebration Of Its 125th Anniversary

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The Moorefield Presbyterian Church here yesterday concluded a week-long observance of its 125th anniversary with evangelistic services and social fellowship occasions.

The 115-year-old church building has been filled nightly with an average of 200 worshippers from this and other churches in the community. Rev. Charles W. Kernan of the Mizpah Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Va., has been the evangelistic preacher. He was pastor of the Moorefield church from 1944 until 1952.

Every evening after the service, women of the church have served coffee, punch and cookies in the fellowship hall.

There was an old-fashioned church supper Saturday night for members, their families and guests. There was a special anniversary Communion service yesterday morning with the church's three former living ministers officiating. They are Dr. Kernan, Rev. Allen Jones and Rev. Richard L. Morgan, Peace College, Raleigh, N. C. Also participating was Rev. Robert B. Woodworth, present pastor of the Moorefield church.

This is considered one of the most historic churches in West Virginia. The congregation received its charter on April 22, 1837, separating from the old "Union Church of Hardy." The present building was begun 10 years later. During the Civil War the church was used by both Confederate and Union forces as a hospital. Union forces also used it as a stable, burning the pews for firewood. For this the federal government paid $800 indemnity in 1914.

The bell for the building was bought from the German-Swiss immigrants who had settled in 1843 at Meyerstown, now in Grant County, intending it for their own town hall. It was used regularly to give the fire alarm in Moorefield until 1934 and still rings the time for services.

The educational building was added in 1923 and the fellowship hall in 1954. As of January 1 the church debt had been liquidated completely.

Suffocation Kills Three During Fire

Firemen Find Bodies Of Family

RAINELLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Three members of a prominent Greenbrier County family were found suffocated Sunday morning by firemen called to put out a blaze in their home here.

One of the victims was Mrs. Pat Deegans, 43, a daughter of Legislative Auditor and former state tax commissioner Clarence Koonz of Charleston.

The other two victims were Mrs. Deegans' husband, William E. Deegans Jr., about 50, and their 12-year-old son, Michael. Deegans was a director of the First National Bank of Alderson and owner and operator of the Wedco Hardware and Supply Co. at East RAINELLE.

Another son, enrolled at a school in Virginia, was not at home at the time of the fire.

Fire Chief Herbert May at East RAINELLE said about 16 firemen were called out to put out a blaze which spread through the living and dining rooms in the house, causing an estimated $5,000 damage.

May theorized that the fire, which went undiscovered through the early morning hours possibly because of a thick fog in the area, started in a living room chair, apparently from a lit cigarette.

Suffocation Kills Three During Fire

Firemen Find
Bodies Of Family

RAINELLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Three members of a prominent Greenbrier County family were found suffocated Sunday morning by firemen called to put out a blaze in their home here.

One of the victims was Mrs. Pat Deegans, 43, a daughter of Legislative Auditor and former state tax commissioner Clarence Koonz of Charleston.

The other two victims were Mrs. Deegans' husband, William E. Deegans Jr., about 50, and their 12-year-old son, Michael. Deegans was a director of the First National Bank of Alderson and owner and operator of the Wedco Hardware and Supply Co. at East Rainelle.

Another son, enrolled at a school in Virginia, was not at home at the time of the fire.

Fire Chief Herbert May at East Rainelle said about 16 firemen were called out to put out a blaze which spread through the living and dining rooms in the house, causing an estimated $5,000 damage.

May theorized that the fire, which went undiscovered through the early morning hours possibly because of a thick fog in the area, started in a living room chair, apparently from a lighted cigarette.

Mother Expires, 100th To Die On Highways

Four Children

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A 24-year-old Cabell County mother of four children Saturday night apparently became West Virginia's 100th highway fatality of the year.

The victim, Mrs. Loretta McComas, and her four children were riding in a car driven by her husband, Virgil McComas, when the vehicle collided at an intersection here with a car driven by Kenneth Rose, 50, also of Huntington.

Authorities said Mrs. McComas and her six-month-old daughter, Tina — both were in the front seat — were thrown from the car. Mrs. McComas died about five minutes after she was taken to a hospital here.

Rose, McComas and the four children, ranging in age from six-months to five years, were not injured seriously, police said.

Two other fatalities reported earlier in the week end were George H. Cox, 33, Ranson, killed Saturday in an accident on W. Va. 51 near Charles Town, and Don K. Gerwig, 18, killed Friday in a wreck on W. Va. 4 in Braxton County.

Frostburg Visit Of Bloodmobile Set For Tuesday

FROSTBURG — The Johnstown bloodmobile will visit the American Legion Home on Tuesday from noon to 6 p. m.

The quota for Frostburg is 120 pints. During the winter months when so many persons have colds and cannot give blood, the supply of available blood is used up rapidly.

It is important that everyone who can possibly give at this time to do so.

Richard S. Jones of 129 Water Street, who gave blood for the first time when the mobile visited Frostburg three months ago stated that he intends to give blood in return for blood he received following an operation. The blood supplied to him from the Red Cross is credited with saving his life.

If you have not been contacted, be a walk-in on Tuesday.

The Railroads And The Unions

Railroad management and representatives of operating unions begin negotiations today in Chicago on work rules, with a strike in the rail industry one possible outcome of the talks. The work rules dispute apparently hasn't budged off dead center in the last year and a half, with the exception that the Presidential Railroad Commission filed its report on February 28. The only importance in this is that the commission was tripartite, having been composed of five representatives each from the railroads, the unions and the public; This is the first time the public has been heard from in any effective way in this dispute; the commission's report reflected largely the views of the public members.

Recommendations included sweeping changes in the work rules, such as eliminating firemen from diesels in road freight or yard service, longer work days for some railroaders, compulsory retirement from road service at age 65 by 1967, wage cuts for those at the top of the scale, but improvements in hours and wages for the three-quarters of all railroaders who are at the lower end of the scale.

The railroads "reluctantly" accepted the report, but the unions exploded, with varying degrees of vehemence. H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, called it the "worst report of any public body in the history of labor relations." The commission said elimination of freight and yard firemen would do away with 35,000 to 45,000 jobs, but the unions called the recommendation "an assault on 80,000 jobs."

With railroads already caught in a financial squeeze unmatched since the Depression, there is widespread doubt about their ability to survive without public help. Now, apparently, there also is widespread realization that something must be done to modernize railroad services and operations. At the same time, something must be done to prevent heavy and long-term unemployment for the thousands of families most directly affected by the work rule negotiations. It's not going to be an easy job.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Berlin

The true object of the differences over Berlin is to liquidate World War II which is still continuing but in an unusual way.

The Russian view is that the war would best be liquidated by recognizing the existence of two Germanys, a Communist East Germany and a Western-oriented West Germany. Berlin would then be the capital of East Germany and part of it.

This solution is a violation of the Yalta and Potsdam Agreements for ending World War II. Khrushchev, like Stalin before him, does not like those agreements because they represent to him unrealistic arrangements made temporarily but with no permanent possibilities. The British view on the subject is formally stated as follows:

"Mr. Khrushchev says over and again that what is needed is to liquidate the vestiges of the Second World War. This sounds simple and attractive. In fact, however, Mr. Khrushchev's proposals would not liquidate the remnants of the last war. The most serious remnant is the division of Germany, which is also the main cause of instability in Europe . . . The Western Powers also want the remnants of the last war removed. But they want to do it in a lasting, safe and satisfactory way, by reunifying Germany, with Berlin as its capital."

Soviet Russia does not regard the unilateral violation of an agreement as improper, because under the Marxist system, no morals matter but the rule of necessity. Whereas 17 years ago, it was all right to agree to what the Western Powers required of Soviet Russia because it was necessary for Russia to receive Western aid, Russia no longer sees such necessity at the present time.

The weakness of the British position, however, is that what a Marxist must interpret as the law of necessity, the British regard as the rule of reason. They favor endless conferences in the hope that Soviet Russia will see the light.

This Chamberlain policy is not due to cowardice; it is rather an inevitable product of British geography. The mistake that Napoleon made was that he fought Russia instead of Great Britain on British soil; the mistake that Hitler made in 1941 was that he fought Russia instead of invading Great Britain before the United States got ready. The next war must be between Soviet Russia and the United States, and Western Europe, including Great Britain, will be squeezed between those two giants. The British wisely but somewhat ineptly are doing what they can to prevent that from happening.

For instance this statement is typical of British thinking.

"It is true that the East German Communist regime is both weak and oppressive and that its economic planning has failed. It feels that the existence of a democratically governed and economically thriving West Berlin shows up its own weakness and oppressiveness. This situation, however, is no excuse for inflicting the threat of war upon the world . . ."

Of course, from a Communist standpoint, the contrast between East and West Germany is offensive to the Soviet Universal State. The contrast is too sharp. It shows to the world what the same people, in the same geographical area, can do under a mixed capitalist-socialist system. It exposes the fallacies of Marxism. The fact that the intellectual classes of East Germany have escaped from that country to West Germany proves conclusively that intellectuals with any means of egress must escape from intellectual and spiritual enslavement.

Today, we reject Soviet Russia's authority to plunder and we say that we shall defend our rights in Berlin, but as we have not defended our rights anywhere else, the Russians are prepared to gamble that they shall back away.

This, I believe to be the Berlin situation. It can be tested in one of three ways

1. Blow up the wall, separating the East and West;
2. Negotiate for the removal of the wall;
3. Do nothing and wait for great events to solve themselves.

Lament On Missing The Coming Of Spring

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

In the last week, all the messengers have successively appeared. The grass has turned miraculously green. The andromedas are richly fringed with tassels of small ivory flowers. One of the camellias has grudgingly permitted a single flower to open, blood-red against dark, shiny green.

Spring has been announced, in the quiet but decisive way that somehow suits this gentle but strong-minded season of the year. But spring has not yet come, alas, at least in the manner that the spring truly, finally, irrevocably comes in this particular corner of Washington, D.C.

Spring's true coming, hereabouts, is to be seen on the box bushes and in the beds of vinca. It has been a mild winter. Nothing has been lost or even damaged, except a small clump of bamboo that was rightly suspected of having been ill-planted in the first instance. But both box and vinca are still dusty, tousled, dull-green, and wintry appearing.

One morning—how soon one can never quite predict—the great change will begin. A box bush that feels particularly content with the station in which Providence and the gardener have seen fit to place it will quite suddenly be covered with a thin film of the true spring green, tender, delicate, vivid, heart-piercing in its promise for the future.

The weeks that follow are always the year's best. The news that each night brings is too passionately interesting to wait until after breakfast. Before coffee, before the newspapers, the first order of business is a quick review of the garden with the dew still on it, to see whether the vinca has flowered, and whether the other box bushes are following the forerunner in a properly enthusiastic manner, and whether the other camellias are blooming as handsomely as last year.

This is the time when the good gardener learns most about his charges. A forward plant is a happy, healthy plant, and a backward plant is like an eternally peevish child, needing to be tested for possible vitamin deficiencies, the presence of worms, or some other hidden ailment.

This year, moreover, this time of the first growth will be almost unendurably exciting. The great-est plantman in the eastern United States, gentle Henry Hohman, has been laid under contribution. From the miraculous wilderness he calls his nursery have come potential wonders—a new strain of box that is wall-growing, another strain with the gauged growth habits of Japanese dwarf trees, and wild American azaleas forest-grown for spidery grace.

But will the new plants show that they are happy in the immemorial way of plants in spring? And will we get the true, flame-yellow bloom that azalea calendulacea ought to put forth? Wait and see, is the only answer.

Inside Washington

SHORTAGES — Persistent and well authenticated reports of food shortages in Red China and Cuba are causing midnight oil to be burned among United States foreign policy makers in Washington. The question, of course, is whether and in what form to offer American assistance to the two Communist countries, which, more than most, are our sworn enemies.

The first emotional reaction is to offer no assistance. This would be popular with large segments of the U.S. public as well as the majorities in the Senate and House. However, there are growing voices within the Kennedy administration for some constructive and famine-alleviating steps to be taken.

In the case of Red China, a plan is jelling to offer to sell U.S. surplus grains, but not to give them away free of charge. The idea is to deplete Red China's foreign exchange, thus further limiting the amounts of war-potential equipment that country can buy from foreign sources.

Cuba presents a somewhat different problem. The administration is extremely reluctant to force suffering on the Cuban people because of the excesses of its government. Washington is also extremely alert to the sympathy other Latin American peoples have for the Cubans.

The rank and file in Latin America carry a distorted picture of the United States with its overflowing wealth in all material things, including food. Should food shortages in Cuba result in hardship and famine there, without a gesture from us, officials fear it would damage U.S. prestige throughout the hemisphere.

It is more than a possibility, therefore, that the administration may soon make public an offer to Cuba to ship needed foods provided it is distributed equitably—without regard to pro or anti-Castroites there — and that it be plainly labeled as coming from the United States.

'Country Boy' Congressman Spends Public's Money Freely On Junket

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma, the real estate Congressman, likes to impress colleagues with the idea that he is still a country boy, despite 18 years of exposure to the big city life of Washington.

Wickersham, now 36, boasts in his Congressional Directory biography that he was born on a "farm" in Arkansas, was "reared on a cotton, wheat, and dairy farm" in Oklahoma, and worked for a time on a "wheat and poultry farm" in Kansas. He also makes a point of engaging in such rustic relaxation as throwing watermelon parties in his back yard.

However, the Oklahoma Congressman doesn't believe in "country living" when it comes to junketing around the world at the taxpayers' expense. He travels first class all the way, stopping at the best hotels and dining high on the hog at the finest restaurants.

An expense account filed recently with the clerk of the House shows that Wickersham splurged an average of $81 a day for lodging, meals, and miscellaneous items — all charged up to the taxpayers. He was touring Europe last fall on a NATO inspection junket for the House Armed Services Committee.

The total bill for his day-to-day living expenses for 26 days came to $2,101.51. This did not include transportation expenses for approximately four days of travel on commercial airliners, which added up to another $1,703.67 — also charged to the taxpayers. In other words, aside from travel costs, Wickersham spent at the rate of $45.20 a day for hotel lodging, $22 a day for meals, and $14 a day for miscellaneous expenses. His itinerary included France, Germany, Switzerland, Greece, Turkey, Italy, Spain and the United Kingdom.

Nothing To Hide "I have nothing to hide," Wickersham declared when questioned by this column. "There were no wine, women or song on this trip. I worked hard every day with other members of the committee, attending about 90 meetings in various countries for the purpose of checking on how the money we appropriate for NATO is being spent."

He did not explain, however, how he happened to spend considerably more than other members of the committee.

"The taxpayers got $1,000 worth of value out of every dollar I spent," he said. "I might add that I spent $700 of my own money on this trip."

Wickersham said he couldn't recall exactly, but that he had traveled about four to six days in France and about eight days in Germany.

The records show that he spent $306 for hotel lodging in France and $301 in Germany, or an average of not less than $43 a day for hotel rooms. He also averaged about $17 a day for meals and $11.50 a day for miscellaneous expenses in the two countries. In Switzerland, where Wickersham reported he had spent "two or three days," the average went up a little. There his hotel lodging came to $52.70 a day, his meals averaged $18.25 a day, plus $16.70 a day for miscellaneous.

Asked about the whopping lodging bills (you can rent a room in the swankier New York hotels for less than $20 a day), Wickersham said they included "a lot of official phone calls, local and long-distance," which were added to the room rent. He also maintained that he had picked up the dinner checks for several State Department guests, accounting in part for the $22 daily average for meals he rang up in the eight countries he visited.

Charged Two Ways

"Once I had three or four servicemen from my district as guests at a meal," he added.

"What about the miscellaneous expenses of $11 to $16 a day?" Wickersham was asked. "What was that for?"

"Tips, taxi fares, stamps, phone calls and so on," he replied.

"But you said that the phone calls were added to the hotel lodging bills," he was reminded.

"I charged the phone calls to both lodging and miscellaneous," he said.

"I worked hard everywhere I went on this trip and I hope you bring this out, instead of criticizing me," said the onetime country boy from Oklahoma.

Nix On Aid For Oldsters

House Republican leaders are so bitter over President Kennedy's medical care for the aged program that they have ordered GOP members of the Education and Labor Committee to boycott hearings on legislation dealing with other help for aged people.

An education and labor subcommittee headed by Rep. Cleveland Bailey of West Virginia, was all set to open hearings in Miami recently on a bill that would establish a commission to coordinate all aids for the aged now divided between the Labor Department, the HEW department and other federal agencies.

However, the Miami hearings had to be called off because GOP Congressman Peter Garland of Maine refused to attend, causing the absence of a subcommittee quorum.

Two other Republican members of the same subcommittee, Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and Albert Quie, also are threatening to boycott hearings on the bill planned for Wheeling, W. Va., South Bend, Ind., Detroit, New Brunswick, N. J., and three California cities — Sacramento, Berkeley and San Diego.

Nonetheless, Democratic Congressmen say the hearings will be held, with or without Republicans present, and despite the undercover sniping of two-Cadillacs Charlie Halleck and John Byrnes, the two GOP leaders who have given orders to sabotage them. (Copyright 1962, By The Bell Syndicate)

HONG KONG, B. C. C.—The Dragon Inn is about halfway to the Bamboo Curtain. It reposes like a pagoda on a rocky ledge over the bay. A steep curving driveway leads up to a court. The twilight air is as soft as crepe and perfumed with night jasmine. It is not near any village and there is an uneasy loneliness about the restaurant.

It is a favorite among Chinese families. Few Caucasians dine here. Chen had insisted. "You'll like it," he had said. "It's a hideaway. A place to relax." He wanted to be our host. So did F. Fong, the tiny man who sells beautiful dresses to fat American women. He has wrinkles in his smile from trying to please people.

Chen is a front man. He is more American than the Americans; he is dark and glib and he can fit a man for three suits and make them in two days. He laughs loud and tilts his head back and says "Boy, he's sharp" and other such ancient oriental homilies. Sometimes he comes to America and, when he does, he resents being searched "like a criminal."

Eight of us sat around a big table. Two cars and two chauffeurs waited in the courtyard. A one-time navy captain named Leslie Hawkins and his wife were savoring the reward of the worker-retirement. Jack and Dorothy Sullivan, a glittering couple, watched the first course of a "real Chinese dinner" come to the table. They weren't smiling.

Kelly and I sat next to each other. She's a striking honey blonde who likes to try exotic foods. Chen sat with his back to the window on the garden; Fong faced him across the table. Each course was served on a platter or bowl which was placed, family style in the middle of the table. There was a tiny dinner plate for each course, and bowls about the size of silver dollars for fragrant sauces.

There is much conversation at a Chinese dinner and everyone eats with unvarying animation. There are ivory chopsticks for each course. A waiter sneaks a knife and fork to towards such as Sullivan. The first course was shark's fin soup. It was made with shredded chicken and noodles. Jack Sullivan grinned gamely and lifted the porcelain spoon to his lips three times, but he never made it. The soup was on the menu at $10 Hong Kong per small bowl. Divide each figure by 5/2 and you'll have it in American money.

The next course was "Fried Sliced Chicken Paper Wrapped."

It came in bags about the size of a change purse. A waiter snipped the bags with scissors and the diners picked the chicken out with chopsticks. This is like trying to grab a diamond with eyebrow tweezers in an unlighted coal mine ($12 Hong Kong.)

I skipped the Stewed Pigeon with Oyster Sauce ($7 HK). I'm an old bird fancier, and I just couldn't fancy myself fancying that pigeon. There is another course, Duck's Feet and Chuk Saug ($6 HK) and, by an enormous exercise of will power, I kept my lips closed.

The next course looked good, and smelled good, until the timid Fong told me that it was grouper head. "Where's the rest of the fish," I said. "They throw it away?" He beamed. "Ah, yes-s-s-s," he said, not understanding the question. I tried three shreds of it and talked as though I was too occupied to eat.

Mrs. Hawkins chewed a mouthful and said: "Mr. Chen, you come to Arkansas sometime and we'll serve you turnip greens." I admire subtle revenge. We also skipped the Pig's Kidney and Bamboo Shoot ($4 HK) for some reason or other which seemed patriotic at the time. The Braised Ox-Tripe ($3 HK) wasn't even mentioned.

Fong kept helping us to more of each dish, and Chen kept saying: "You see? Isn't it beautiful? This real Chinese." I never liked fake Chinese food, such as chow mein and chop suey, but I began to think better of it. There was a Chicken Blood Soup ($2 HK) about ready. But I wasn't.

For vegetables, there was Buds of Peas with Crabmeat ($6 HK) and Hairy Squash with Oyster Sauce, a rare treat with any brain washing. There were also 15 kinds of rice and, if you wanted, you could go to a big fish bowl and select your own finny friend, which is plucked out with a net and fried, baked, sauteed, eviscerated, stroked to death with a peacock fan, or served raw.

As a dessert, there was Lotus Seed Cream, hot or cold, at $4 HK a copy. I was afraid it might show up in a Warner-Lambert or Pond's jar, so I said: "Thank you, no." The navy captain had courage. He ate everything and smiled as though he had just sustained three torpedo hits.

We got up from the table and shook hands with Chen and Fong three times apiece, expressing outrageous gratitude. Then we left for the hour ride back to Kowloon and Sullivan permitted the night breeze to run across his high complexion. He said: "Boy, when we hit that hotel am I gonna eat!"

French forest fire fighters have built an auto with two motors and two front ends, no rear, so that it doesn't have to be turned around. Fine — if the driver can always remember whether he's coming or going.

Tests Show Most Adults Immune To Mumps

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Mumps, a winter-spring disease, usually is mild — so much so that one-third of all cases escape detection, particularly in children. The majority recover completely because the most discussed complication, involvement of the sex glands, does not occur before puberty.

When an adult is exposed he is likely to be concerned about the possibility of becoming infected. Those who have had mumps need not worry because the chances are they are immune. But what about those who never had mumps or who do not recall an attack of this disease?

Skin tests show that most adults are immune. It is here that we must return to the one-third of all the cases that escaped detection. They have had the disease, explaining why the majority of adolescents and adults without a history of mumps are immune and do not develop it when exposed.

Dr. Richard M. Angle of Santa Fe, N. M., handles the problem in a more logical way. He does a mumps skin test on all doubtful adolescents and adults to determine susceptibility. Originally he tried it on 170 persons who had been exposed to mumps, usually within the family, but in whom there was no personal history of the disease.

The test was positive in 151 of the 170, demonstrating immunity to the disease. None developed mumps. Of the 19 with negative reactions, 17 were immunized. Some received the protective serum and others the vaccine; the remainder received both. None who received both developed mumps; those not protected or only partially protected contracted the condition.

This study indicates the majority of adults are immune and the few that are not should receive the protective serum and vaccine. The skin test ought to be given prior to the development of mumps in the family because the vaccine works best when given early.

NAIL BITING FAMILY

A. Y. writes: Can nail biting be cured? I'm in the menopause and this habit is of long standing but seems to be worse than when I was younger. My mother also bites her nails as well as an uncle and several aunts. I understand my maternal grandmother did, too.

REPLY

Nail biting is a sign of emotional immaturity and nervousness. Good mental health begins in the home and children are handicapped by parents who never developed emotional stability. Nail biting that has persisted through three generations may be on this basis.

STOMACH LACKS ACID

B. C. G. writes: Is no acid in the stomach a sure sign of pernicious anemia?

REPLY

No, even though everyone with pernicious anemia lacks hydrochloric acid in the stomach. A blood count will be necessary to diagnose pernicious anemia. But the opposite also is true in that many normal persons have no acid.

COFFEE AND ULCER

K. F. writes: Is black coffee more harmful for a person with ulcer than coffee with cream?

REPLY

Coffee is verboten for victims of peptic ulcer because it stimulates acid secretion and increases intestinal irritability. Adding cream lessens the adverse effect somewhat, but not enough to be of practical value.

CHEWING MOVEMENTS

Curious writes: What do older persons chew on when they just sit and masticate, with nothing in the mouth?

REPLY

This is a bad habit related perhaps to grinding of the teeth.

PATIENCE NEEDED

C. K. writes: I have been healthy all my life but now have stiffness that makes getting up from a chair difficult. Do I need a doctor?

REPLY

No, just a little patience. This sounds like "rheumatics" of the spine and knees, the kind older people get. A heating pad will do wonders. Stiffness may come and go and probably will get no worse unless the back is strained or injured.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Author Bob Sylvester has been doing a bit of research on the subject of wills. He uncovered one by an Australian that left his widow "one shilling for tram fare to some place where she can drown herself." One man left four million dollars to his son in a will three lines long; another left a hundred dollars in a will written on the rungs of a 7-foot step-ladder.

A former Panama Canal Zone governor cut his sister out of his will because one of her sons sat on the Army side at an Army-Navy football game—and cheered for the Navy. Heinrich Heine, the German poet, left his entire estate to his wife—with the express condition that she remarry immediately—so that at least one unfortunate male would regret his passing.

A recent piece of advertising copy was turned down angrily by the account executive for whom it had been designed. "I've told you fifty thousand times," expostulated the executive, "I CAN'T STAND EXAGGERATION."

The railroads "reluctantly" accepted the report, but the unions exploded, with varying degrees of vehemence. H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, called it the "worst report of any public body in the history of labor relations." The commission said elimination of freight and yard firemen would do away with 35,000 to 45,000 jobs, but the unions called the recommendation "an assault on 80,000 jobs."

With railroads already caught in a financial squeeze unmatched since the Depression, there is widespread doubt about their ability to survive without public help. Now, apparently, there also is widespread realization that something must be done to modernize railroad services and operations. At the same time, something must be done to prevent heavy and long-term unemployment for the thousands of families most directly affected by the work rule negotiations. It's not going to be an easy job.

Berlin

The true object of the differences over Berlin is to liquidate World War II which is still continuing but in an unusual way.

The Russian view is that the war would best be liquidated by recognizing the existence of two Germanys, a Communist East Germany and a Western-oriented West Germany. Berlin would then be the capital of East Germany and part of it.

This solution is a violation of the Yalta and Potsdam Agreements for ending World War II. Khrushchev, like Stalin before him, does not like those agreements because they represent to him unrealistic arrangements made temporarily but with no permanent possibilities. The British view on the subject is formally stated as follows:

"Mr. Khrushchev says over and again that what is needed is to liquidate the vestiges of the Second World War. This sounds simple and attractive. In fact, however, Mr. Khrushchev's proposals would not liquidate the remnants of the last war. The most serious remnant is the division of Germany, which is also the main cause of instability in Europe. . . . The Western Powers also want the remnants of the last war removed. But they want to do it in a lasting, safe and satisfactory way, by reunifying Germany, with Berlin as its capital."

Soviet Russia does not regard the unilateral violation of an agreement as improper, because under the Marxist system, not morals matter but the rule of necessity. Whereas 17 years ago, it was all right to agree to what the Western Powers required of Soviet Russia because it was necessary for Russia to receive Western aid, Russia no longer sees such necessity at the present time.

The weakness of the British position, however, is that what a Marxist must interpret as the law of necessity, the British regard as the rule of reason. They favor endless conferences in the hope that Soviet Russia will see the light.

This Chamberlain policy is not due to cowardice; it is rather an inevitable product of British geography. The mistake that Napoleon made was that he fought Russia instead of Great Britain on British soil; the mistake that Hitler made in 1941 was that he fought Russia instead of invading Great Britain before the United States got ready. The next war must be between Soviet Russia and the United States, and Western Europe, including Great Britain, will be squeezed between those two giants. The British wisely but somewhat ineptly are doing what they can to prevent that from happening.

For instance this statement is typical of British thinking.

"It is true that the East German Communist regime is both weak and oppressive and that its economic planning has failed. It feels that the existence of a democratically governed and economically thriving West Berlin shows up its own weakness and oppressiveness. This situation, however, is no excuse for inflicting the threat of war upon the world. . . ."

Of course, from a Communist standpoint, the contrast between East and West Germany is offensive to the Soviet Universal State. The contrast is too sharp. It shows to the world what the same people, in the same geographical area, can do under a mixed capitalist-socialist system. It exposes the fallacies of Marxism. The fact that the intellectual classes of East Germany have escaped from that country to West Germany proves conclusively that intellectuals with any means of egress must escape from intellectual and spiritual enslavement.

Today, we reject Soviet Russia's authority to plunder and we say that we shall defend our rights in Berlin, but as we have not defended our rights anywhere else, the Russians are prepared to gamble that we shall back away.

This, I believe to be the Berlin situation. It can be tested in one of three ways

1. Blow up the wall, separating the East and West;
2. Negotiate for the removal of the wall;
3. Do nothing and wait for great events to solve themselves.

Lament On Missing The Coming Of Spring

WASHINGTON

In the last week, all the messengers have successively appeared. The grass has turned miraculously green. The andromedas are richly fringed with tassels of small ivory flowers. One of the camellias has grudgingly permitted a single flower to open, blood-red against dark, shiny green.

Spring has been announced, in the quiet but decisive way that somehow suits this gentle but strong-minded season of the year. But spring has not yet come, alas, at least in the manner that the spring truly, finally, irrevocably comes in this particular corner of Washington, D.C.

Spring's true coming, hereabouts, is to be seen on the box bushes and in the beds of vinca. It has been a mild winter. Nothing has been lost or even damaged, except a small clump of bamboo that was rightly suspected of having been ill-planted in the first instance. But both box and vinca are still dusty, tousled, dull-green, and wintry appearing.

One morning—how soon one can never quite predict—the great change will begin. A box bush that feels particularly content with the station in which Providence and the gardener have seen fit to place it will quite suddenly be covered with a thin film of the true spring green, tender, delicate, vivid, heart-piercing in its promise for the future.

The weeks that follow are always the year's best. The news that each night brings is too passionately interesting to wait until after breakfast. Before coffee, before the newspapers, the first order of business is a quick review of the garden with the dew still on it, to see whether the vinca has flowered, and whether the other box bushes are following the forerunner in a properly enthusiastic manner, and whether the other camellias are blooming as handsomely as last year.

This is the time when the good gardener learns most about his charges. A forward plant is a happy, healthy plant, and a backward plant is like an eternally peevish child, needing to be tested for possible vitamin deficiencies, the presence of worms, or some other hidden ailment.

This year, moreover, this time of the first growth will be almost unendurably exciting. The greatest plantsman in the eastern United States, gentle Henry Hohman, has been laid under contribution. From the miraculous wilderness

By Joseph Alsop

he calls his nursery have come potential wonders—a new strain of box that is wall-growing, another strain with the gnarled growth habits of Japanese dwarf trees, and wild American azaleas forest-grown for splendor grace.

But will the new plants show that they are happy in the immemorial way of plants in spring? And will we get the true, flame-yellow bloom that azalea calendulacea ought to put forth? Wait and see, is the only answer.

SHORTAGES — Persistent and well authenticated reports of food shortages in Red China and Cuba are causing midnight oil to be burned among United States foreign policy makers in Washington. The question, of course, is whether and in what form to offer American assistance to the two Communist countries, which, more than most, are our sworn enemies.

The first emotional reaction is to offer no assistance. This would be popular with large segments of the U.S. public as well as the majorities in the Senate and House. However, there are growing voices within the Kennedy administration for some constructive and famine-alleviating steps to be taken.

In the case of Red China, a plan is jelling to offer to sell U.S. surplus grains, but not to give them away free of charge. The idea is to deplete Red China's foreign exchange, thus further limiting the amounts of war-potential equipment that country can buy from foreign sources.

Cuba presents a somewhat different problem. The administration is extremely reluctant to force suffering on the Cuban people because of the excesses of its government. Washington is also extremely alert to the sympathy other Latin American peoples have for the Cubans.

The rank and file in Latin America carry a distorted picture of the United States with its overflowing wealth in all material things, including food. Should food shortages in Cuba result in hardship and famine there, without a gesture from us, officials fear it would damage U.S. prestige throughout the hemisphere.

It is more than a possibility, therefore, that the administration may soon make public an offer to Cuba to ship needed foods provided it is distributed equitably—without regard to pro or anti-Castroites there — and that it be plainly labeled as coming from the United States.

Tests Show Most Adults Immune To Mumps

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Mumps, a winter-spring disease, usually is mild — so much so that one-third of all cases escape detection, particularly in children. The majority recover completely because the most discussed complication, involvement of the sex glands, does not occur before puberty.

When an adult is exposed he is likely to be concerned about the possibility of becoming infected. Those who have had mumps need not worry because the chances are they are immune. But what about those who never had mumps or who do not recall an attack of this disease?

Skin tests show that most adults are immune. It is here that we must return to the one-third of all the cases that escaped detection. They have had the disease, explaining why the majority of adolescents and adults without a history of mumps are immune and do not develop it when exposed.

Dr. Richard M. Angle of Santa Fe, N. M., handles the problem in a more logical way. He does a mumps skin test on all doubtful adolescents and adults to determine susceptibility. Originally he tried it on 179 persons who had been exposed to mumps, usually within the family, but in whom there was no personal history of the disease.

The test was positive in 151 of the 179, demonstrating immunity to the disease. None developed mumps. Of the 19 with negative reactions, 17 were immunized. Some received the protective serum and others the vaccine; the remainder received both. None who received both developed mumps; those not protected or only partially protected contracted the condition.

This study indicates the majority of adults are immune and the few that are not should receive the protective serum and vaccine. The skin test ought to be given prior to the development of mumps in the family because the vaccine works best when given early.

Nail biting is a sign of emotional immaturity and nervousness. Good mental health begins in the home and children are handicapped by parents who never developed emotional stability. Nail biting that has persisted through three generations may be on this basis.

'Country Boy' Congressman Spends Public's Money Freely On Junket

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma, the real estate Congressman, likes to impress colleagues with the idea that he is still a country boy, despite 18 years of exposure to the big city life of Washington.

Wickersham, now 56, boasts in his Congressional Directory biography that he was born on a "farm" in Arkansas, was "reared on a cotton, wheat, and dairy farm" in Oklahoma, and worked for a time on a "wheat and poultry farm" in Kansas. He also makes a point of engaging in such rustic relaxation as throwing watermelon parties in his back yard.

However, the Oklahoma Congressman doesn't believe in "country living" when it comes to junketing around the world at the taxpayers' expense. He travels first class all the way, stopping at the best hotels and dining high on the hog at the finest restaurants.

An expense account filed recently with the clerk of the House shows that Wickersham splurged an average of $81 a day for lodging, meals, and miscellaneous items — all charged up to the taxpayers. He was touring Europe last fall on a NATO inspection junket for the House Armed Services Committee.

The total bill for his day-to-day living expenses for 26 days came to $2,101.51. This did not include transportation expenses for approximately four days of travel on commercial airliners, which added up to another $1,703.67 — also charged to the taxpayers. In other words, aside from travel costs, Wickersham spent at the rate of $45.20 a day for hotel lodging, $22 a day for meals, and $14 a day for miscellaneous expenses.

His itinerary included France, Germany, Switzerland, Greece, Turkey, Italy, Spain and the United Kingdom.

Nothing To Hide

"I have nothing to hide," Wickersham declared when questioned by this column. "There were no wine, women or song on this trip. I worked hard every day with other members of the committee, attending about 90 meetings in various countries for the purpose of checking on how the money we appropriate for NATO is being spent."

He did not explain, however, how he happened to spend considerably more than other members of the committee.

"The taxpayers got $1,000 worth of value out of every dollar I spent," he said. "I might add that I spent $700 of my own money on this trip."

Wickersham said he couldn't recall exactly, but that he had traveled about four to six days in France and about eight days in Germany.

The records show that he spent $306 for hotel lodging in France and $301 in Germany, or an average of not less than $43 a day for hotel rooms. He also averaged about $17 a day for meals and $11.50 a day for miscellaneous expenses in the two countries. In Switzerland, where Wickersham reported he had spent "two or three days," the average went up a little. There his hotel lodging came to $52.70 a day, his meals averaged $18.25 a day, plus $16.70 a day for miscellaneous.

Asked about the whopping lodging bills (you can rent a room in the swankier New York hotels for less than $20 a day), Wickersham said they included "a lot of official phone calls, local and long-distance," which were added to the room rent. He also maintained that he had picked up the dinner checks for several State Department guests, accounting in part for the $22 daily average for meals he rang up in the eight countries he visited.

Charged Two Ways

"Once I had three or four servicemen from my district as guests at a meal," he added.

"What about the miscellaneous expenses of $11 to $16 a day?" Wickersham was asked. "What was that for?"

"Tips, taxi fares, stamps, phone calls and so on," he replied.

"But you said that the phone calls were added to the hotel lodging bills," he was reminded.

"I charged the phone calls to both lodging and miscellaneous," he said.

"I worked hard everywhere I went on this trip and I hope you bring this out, instead of criticizing me," said the onetime country boy from Oklahoma.

Nix On Aid For Oldsters

House Republican leaders are so bitter over President Kennedy's medical care for the aged program that they have ordered GOP members of the Education and Labor Committee to boycott hearings on legislation dealing with other help for aged people.

An education and labor subcommittee headed by Rep. Cleveland Bailey of West Virginia, was all set to open hearings in Miami recently on a bill that would establish a commission to coordinate all aids for the aged now divided between the Labor Department, the HEW department and other federal agencies.

However, the Miami hearings had to be called off because GOP Congressman Peter Garland of Maine refused to attend, causing the absence of a subcommittee quorum.

Two other Republican members of the same subcommittee, Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and Albert Guen, also are threatening to boycott hearings on the bill planned for Wheeling, W. Va., South Bend, Ind., Detroit, New Brunswick, N. J., and three California cities — Sacramento, Berkeley and San Diego.

Nonetheless, Democratic Congressmen say the hearings will be held, with or without Republican presence, and despite the undercurrent sniping of two-Cadillac Charlie Halleck and John Byrnes, the two GOP leaders who have given orders to sabotage them. (Copyright 1962, By The Bell Syndicate)

HONG KONG, B. C. C.—The Dragon Inn is about halfway to the Bamboo Curtain. It reposes like a pagoda on a rocky ledge over the bay. A steep curving driveway leads up to a court. The twilight air is as soft as crepe and perfumed with night jasmine. It is not near any village and there is an uneasy loneliness about the restaurant.

It is a favorite among Chinese families. Few Caucasians dine here. Chen had insisted. "You'll like it," he had said. "It's a hide-away. A place to relax." He wanted to be our host. So did Fong, the tiny man who sells beautiful dresses to fat American women. He has wrinkles in his smile from trying to please people.

Chen is a front man. He is more American than the Americans; he is dark and glib and he can fit a man for three suits and make them in two days. He laughs loud and tilts his head back and says "Boy, he's sharp" and other such ancient oriental homilies. Sometimes he comes to America and, when he does, he resents being searched "like a criminal."

Eight of us sat around a big table. Two cars and two chauffeurs waited in the courtyard. A one-time navy captain named Leslie Hawkinson and his wife were savoring the reward of the worker-retirement. Jack and Dorothy Sullivan, a glittering couple, watched the first course of a "real Chinese dinner" come to the table. They weren't smiling.

Kelly and I sat next to each other. She's a striking honey blonde who likes to try exotic foods. Chen sat with his back to the window on the garden. Fong faced him across the table. Each course was served on a platter or bowl which was placed, family style in the middle of the table. There was a tiny dinner plate for each course, and bowls about the size of silver dollars for fragrant sauces.

There is much conversation at a Chinese dinner and everyone eats with unvarying animation. There are ivory chopsticks for each course. A waiter sneaks a knife and fork to towards such as Sullivan. The first course was shark's fin soup. It was made with shredded chicken and noodles and lifted the porcelain spoon to his lips three times, but he never made it. The soup was on the menu at $10 Hong Kong per small bowl. Divide each figure by 5½ and you'll have it in American money.

The next course was "Fried Sliced Chicken Paper Wrapped." It came in bags about the size of a change purse. A waiter snipped the bags with scissors and the diners picked the chicken out with chopsticks. This is like trying to grab a diamond with eyebrow tweezers in an unlighted coal mine ($12 Hong Kong.) I skipped the Stewed Pigeon with Oyster Sauce ($7 HK). I'm an old bird fancier, and I just couldn't fancy myself fancying that pigeon. There is another course, Duck's Feet and Chuk Saung ($6 HK) and, by an enormous exercise of will power, I kept my lips closed.

The next course looked good, and smelled good, until the timid Fong told me that it was grouper head. "Where's the rest of the fish," I said. "They throw it away?" He beamed. "Ah, yes-s-s-s" he said, not understanding the question. I tried three shreds of it and talked as though I was too occupied to eat.

Mrs. Hawkinson chewed a mouthful and said: "Mr. Chen, you come to Arkansas sometime and we'll serve you turnip greens." I admire subtle revenge. We also skipped the Pig's Kidney and Bamboo Shoot ($4 HK) for some reason or other which seemed patriotic at the time. The Braised Ox-Tripe ($3 HK) wasn't even mentioned.

Fong kept helping us to more of each dish, and Chen kept saying: "You see? Isn't it beautiful? This real Chinese." I never liked fake Chinese food, such as chow mein and chop suey, but I began to think better of it. There was a Chicken Blood Soup ($2 HK) about ready. But I wasn't.

For vegetables, there was Buds of Peas with Crabmeat ($6 HK) and Hairy Squash with Oyster Sauce, a rare treat at any brain washing. There were also 15 kinds of rice and, if you wanted, you could go to a big fish bowl and select your own finny friend, which is plucked out with a net and fried, baked, sauteed, eviscerated, stroked to death with a peacock fan, or served raw.

As a dessert, there was Lotus Seed Cream, hot or cold, at $4 HK a copy. I was afraid it might show up in a Warner-Lambert or Pond's jar, so I said: "Thank you, no." The navy captain had courage. He ate everything and smiled as though he had just sustained three torpedo hits.

We got up from the table and shook hands with Chen and Fong three times apiece, expressing outrageous gratitude. Then we left for the hour ride back to Kowloon and Sullivan permitted the night breeze to run across his high complexion. He said: "Boy, when we hit that hotel am I gonna eat?"

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Author Bob Sylvester has been doing a bit of research on the subject of wills. He uncovered one by an Australian that left his widow "one shilling for tram fare to some place where she can drown herself." One man left four million dollars to his son in a will three lines long; another left a hundred dollars in a will written on the rungs of a 7-foot step-ladder.

A former Panama Canal Zone governor cut his sister out of his will because one of her sons sat on the Army side at an Army-Navy football game—and cheered for the Navy. Heinrich Heine, the German poet, left his entire estate to his wife—with the express condition that she remarry immediately—so that at least one unfortunate male would regret his passing.

A recent piece of advertising copy was turned down angrily by the account executive for whom it had been designed. "I've told you fifty thousand times," expostulated the executive, "I CAN'T STAND EXAGGERATION."

COLLEGE GYMNASTS: HERE'S ONE WAY TO "KEEP FIT"

When President Kennedy advised American youth become more physically fit, he might have had the Springfield College at Springfield, Mass., in mind. The school has stressed physical education for years. Gymnastic exercises are part of the rigorous training.

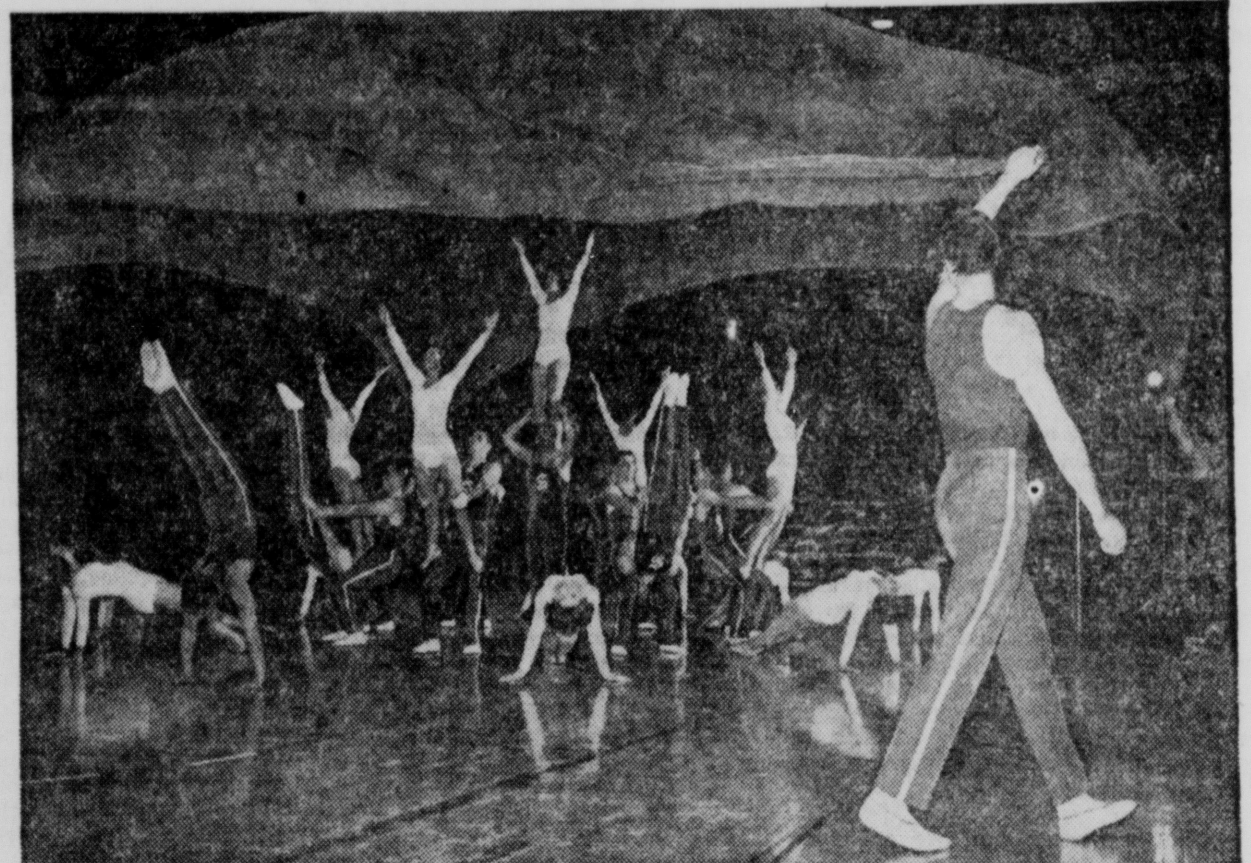

Each year the school puts on a gymnastics team exhibition. The 1962 show, held in the campus hall and pictured here, was one of the biggest. Students, most of them majoring in physical education, performed with professional skill and daring. They hung from flying rings, straddled bars, vaulted wooden horses, built human pyramids, and juggled Indian clubs. As a side attraction, they presented half a dozen tableaux. This year, for the first time, 18 girls participated.

Although gymnastics at Springfield College got its start back in 1891-2, it wasn't until 1904-5 that an organized team with a coach, team captain and manager brought about the birth of the present-day gymnastics exhibition team. With the exception of three World War II years, the exhibition has been held each year. During the fall and winter, the team performs in towns and cities throughout the Northeast.

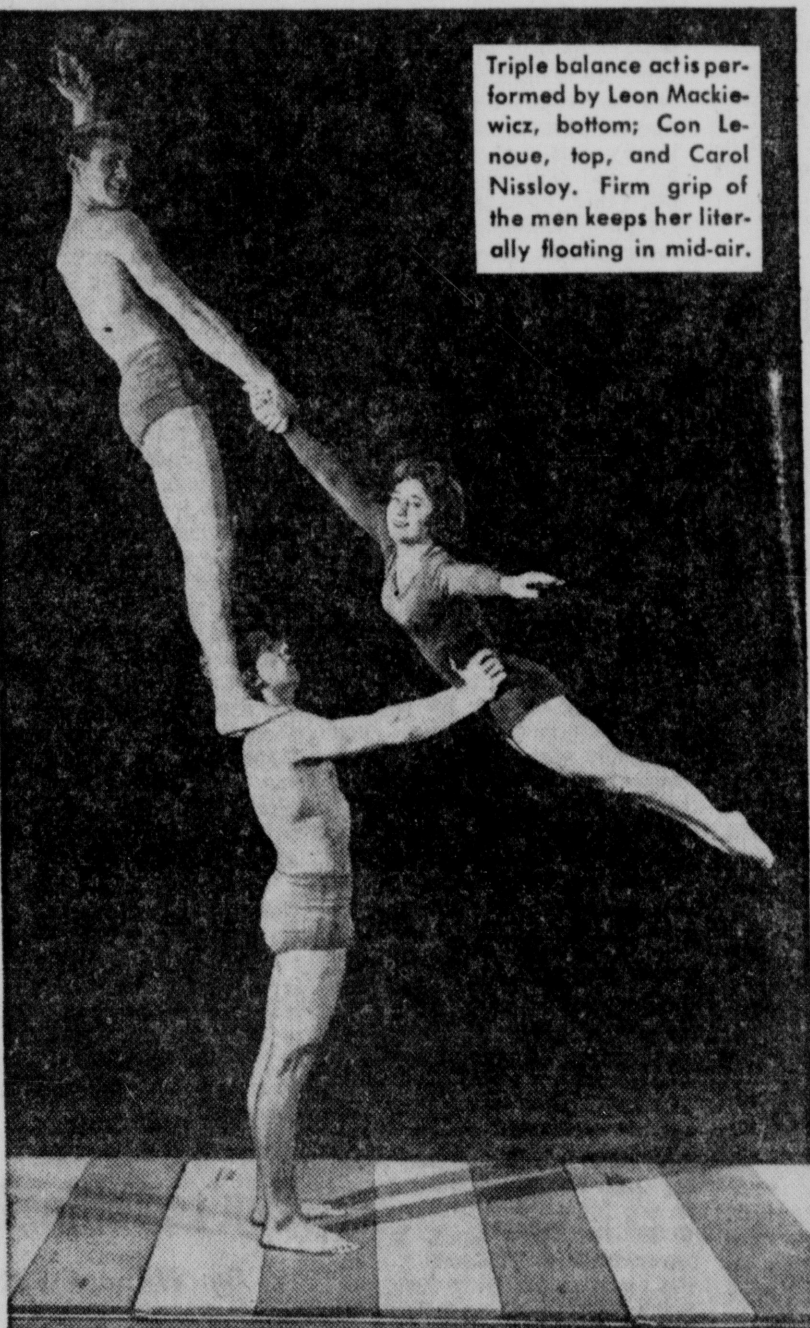

Among the students who were members of the 1891 gymnast squad were two who later won national fame in sports. They were Dr. James Naismith, inventor of basketball, and Alonzo A. Stagg, the "Grand Old Man of Football."

With lovely grace, Gail Williamson balances herself on one of the uneven parallel bars.

Fisticuffs Mar Battle As Celtics Win Over Warriors, 119-104

Boston Takes 3-2 Lead In Cage Series

Heinshon Ejected;

Play Again Tuesday

BOSTON (UPI) — The defending champion Boston Celtics built a 23-point first half cushion and held on through a brawling fourth period Sunday to take a 3-2 game advantage over the Philadelphia Warriors, 119-104, in their best of seven series.

Only one player was ejected during a wild fourth period which three times erupted into fisticuffs. Several blows were struck on both sides and relatively tiny players on each team twice brandished a photographer's stool to ward off angry bigger men.

At Philly Tuesday

The Boston victory marked the third time in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division finals that the Celtics have taken a game advantage from the Warriors. The teams play Tuesday night in Philadelphia and return here for a seventh game, if needed, on Thursday night.

Boston's Bill Russell scored another rebounding decision over NBA scoring king Wilt Chamberlain of the Warriors. Chamberlain scored 30 points to 29 for Russell who finished with 26 rebounds to 14 for Wilt.

Sam Jones, a Boston main bouter in one of the bigger late game fights, finished as the No. 2 Celtics scorer with 23 points. Tom Heinshon had 17 to top three other members of the winning team who hit double figures.

Guard Guy Rodgers was Philadelphia's No. 2 point producer with 16 points while rookie Tom Meschery had 14 before fouling out early in the fourth period. 13,496 See Battle

A near capacity Boston Garden crowd 13,496 saw the Celtics, rebounding from a 110-106 televised defeat Saturday, jump to a quick early lead which they never relinquished. The Celtics, whose game opening margin was 10-2, led by 10 at the quarter and 23 at the half with a big 72-point halftime total before both teams cooled off in the third quarter.

Boston's Heinshon was the only player thrown out of the game though he wasn't a participant in any of three main bouts. Boston's Sam Jones collided with Chamberlain on a drive just as the final period began and the two teams were off. The pair exchanged angry words and when the 7-1 Chamberlain repeatedly grabbed at the 6-4 Jones' wrist, Sam jumped off the court, scooped up a vacated photographer's stool and swung it menacingly at Chamberlain.

Officials, police, ushers and other players separated the pair while fans flooded on to the court. The battle appeared over when Boston reserve Carl Braun and Philadelphia's Al Attles broke out swinging behind the basket. Braun suffered a cut lip.

Rodgers Picks Up Stool

Play resumed after referee Sid Borgia ruled there would be no fouls despite the battling. However, less than a minute later, Warrior Rodgers picked up the same stool when he was threatened by Boston's Jim Loscutt. When a fan tried to get at Rodgers, he was intercepted by a police sergeant and that fan plus two others were hustled out. Once again there were no fouls called.

Thirty seconds later, Boston's Heinshon rammed Philadelphia's Tim Luckenbill and Heinshon was immediately disqualified.

Pistons Prolong NBA Series, Beat Lakers, 132-125

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The revitalized Detroit Pistons prolonged the Western Division finals of the National Basketball Association by whipping the Los Angeles Lakers 132-125 Saturday night before 8,263 fans.

The victory trimmed the Lakers lead to 3-2 in the best-of-seven series, which resumes Tuesday night at Detroit. It was the first time the Pistons have defeated the Lakers in the Sports Arena.

The Pistons momentarily lost their poise in their last quarter but their earlier 30-point lead was too great an advantage for Los Angeles to overcome.

Marr Noses Out Steelsmith In Azalea Playoff

Cops $2,800 Prize
On First Extra Hole

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Dave Marr rolled in a three-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Jerry Steelsmith Sunday and won top money of $2,800 in the $20,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

Steelsmith, of Glendale, Calif., hoping to win his first tournament, won $1,900 as runner-up.

The two young pros had tied over the 72-hole route at 281, seven under par. They finished a stroke ahead of Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., who bogeyed the 15th and 16th holes for a 73 finish and won $1,400.

Marr, 28, a Texan playing out of Sun City, Ariz., set up his winning birdie with a "little eight-iron shot" on the extra hole. Steelsmith, 26, who had birdied five holes on the back nine to close with 68, put his second shot about 20 feet from the hole as sudden-death play began. His putt rolled about a foot by the hole and Marr knocked in his.

Marr stands 5 feet 9 and weighs about 160. His only other major victory on the PGA trail came at Seattle last September, also in a playoff.

The 6,700-yard Cape Fear Country Club course was swept by a brisk wind that accompanied the midday sunshine after a heavy early morning rain.

A three-way tie for fourth at 283 brought $1,100 each to Tom Bolt, Howie Johnson and Bill Casper, who won at Miami, Fla., last Monday.

Bartlesville Wins AAU Title, Defeats Denver Quint, 70-59

DENVER (AP) — Bartlesville, Okla., under the guidance of playmaker Gary Thompson, rapped Denver 70-59 Saturday night in the National AAU Basketball Tournament championship highlighted by a two-minute fist fight between two players.

The Oklahoma Oilers outclassed the hometown favorites before 8,200 fans who earlier saw Akron, Ohio, trample the U.S. Marines 87-74 for third place.

The high point of the title game came with seven minutes to play when Denver's Harvey Salt started swinging on Jerry Shipp of Bartlesville after a foul was whistled.

Salz took a couple of swings before officials and teammates grabbed him.

Denver lagged by 13 points in the first half, but recovered in the late stages of the game after scoring only five points in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

West Virginia Gridders Open Spring Drills

Corum Will Welcome 70 Candidates Today

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach Gene Corum is expected to welcome about 70 candidates Monday at the scheduled opening of spring football drills.

The squad will include 23 lettermen and 20 prospects from last season's outstanding freshman team. Corum will have plenty of experienced personnel on hand, including 10 of the 11 players who started the first game of the 1961 season.

The Mountaineers won four games and lost six last year and Corum is looking for an improved season next fall. Two of the West Virginia wins last season came over Army and arch-rival Pitt.

West Virginia will be well equipped at fullback and center but is expected to be a little weak at the end positions.

West Virginia opens against Vanderbilt followed by games with Virginia Tech, Boston University, Pitt, George Washington, Oregon State, William & Mary, Penn State, The Citadel and Syracuse.

Jay Gives Up Three Runs In 10th Frame

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals scored three runs in each of the ninth and 10th innings Sunday to register a 7-4 victory over the New York Mets. Jay Hook, who was the victim of an eight-run inning in his last outing, gave up the three runs in the 10th and was charged with his third defeat.

The Cardinals trailed the Mets, 3-1, going into the ninth when they erupted for five straight singles that gave them a 4-3 lead. But Ed Bouchee pinch hit a homer for New York in the bottom half to send the game into extra innings.

Hook, who now has an earned run average of 12.38, was tagged for consecutive singles by Julian Javier, Bill White and Red Schoendienst, plus a double by Gene Oliver, in the 10th inning.

Miss Thomas, ranked No. 6 in the United States, broke Miss Bueno's service in the second game of the deciding set as the Brazilian star became erratic and missed easy plays at the net.

Roy Emerson defeated Rod Laver 7-5, 7-5 and won the men's title in an all-Australian final.

Emerson and Laver teamed to win the men's doubles title, turning back Wolfgang Stuck of Germany and Mike Sangster of Britain in the final 6-3, 7-5.

Kansas City Beats Pipers In Series Opener, 126-115

Bridges Scores 36 Points; Second Tilt Scheduled Tuesday

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Big Bill Bridges scored 36 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Sunday to lead the Kansas City Steers to a 126-115 victory over the Cleveland Pipers in the opening game of their best-of-five series for the American Basketball League championship.

Bridges, a 6-5, 235-pound center from the University of Kansas, hit 13 of 21 shots from the field to set the pace for the hot-shooting Steers, who cashed in on 58.7 per cent.

Kansas City led from the outset but almost blew a 17-point lead in the last quarter when Cleveland narrowed the margin to 116-111 with 4:18 left.

Then Maurice King, Nick Mantis and Larry Staverman hit three quick baskets to put the game out of reach.

The Steers, who won the first half championship and were second half Western Division champions relied on their three big men, Bridges, Staverman and Gene Tormohlen for their scoring punch.

Staverman had 25 points and Tormohlen had 7 of 8 from the field and 21 points.

Cleveland stayed in contention with 6-9 Connie Dierking working well under the basket and Johnny Cox and Dick Barnett hitting consistently from the outside.

The Pipers had 10 3-point field goals with Cox getting 5. Barnett and Dierking each had 31 points and Cox 25 for the Pipers.

Fisticuffs Mar Battle As Celtics Win Over Warriors, 119-104

Boston Takes 3-2 Lead In Cage Series

Heinsohn Ejected;

Play Again Tuesday

BOSTON (UPI) — The defending champion Boston Celtics built a 23-point first half cushion and held on through a brawling fourth period Sunday to take a 3-2 game advantage over the Philadelphia Warriors, 119-104, in their best of seven series.

Only one player was ejected during a wild fourth period which three times erupted into fisticuffs. Several blows were struck on both sides and relatively tiny players on each team twice brandished a photographer's stool to ward off angry bigger men.

At Philly Tuesday

The Boston victory marked the third time in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division finals that the Celtics have taken a game advantage from the Warriors. The teams play Tuesday night in Philadelphia and return here for a seventh game, if needed, on Thursday night.

Boston's Bill Russell scored another rebounding decision over NBA scoring king Wilt Chamberlain of the Warriors. Chamberlain scored 30 points to 29 for Russell who finished with 26 rebounds to 14 for Wilt.

Sam Jones, a Boston main bouter in one of the bigger late game fights, finished as the No. 2 Celtics scorer with 23 points. Tom Heinsohn had 17 to top three other members of the winning team who hit double figures.

Guard Guy Rodgers was Philadelphia's No. 2 point producer with 16 points while rookie Tom Meschery had 14 before fouling out early in the fourth period. 13,496 See Battle

A near capacity Boston Garden crowd 13,496 saw the Celtics, rebounding from a 110-106 televised defeat Saturday, jump to a quick early lead which they never relinquished. The Celtics, whose game opening margin was 10-2, led by 10 at the quarter and 23 at the half with a big 72-point halftime total before both teams cooled off in the third quarter.

Boston's Heinsohn was the only player thrown out of the game though he wasn't a participant in any of three main bouts. Boston's Sam Jones collided with Chamberlain on a drive just as the final period began and the two teams were off. The pair exchanged angry words and when the 7-1 Chamberlain repeatedly grabbed at the 6-4 Jones' wrist, Sam jumped off the court, scooped up a vacated photographer's stool and swung it menacingly at Chamberlain.

Officials, police, ushers and other players separated the pair while fans flooded on to the court. The battle appeared over when Boston reserve Carl Braun and Philadelphia's Al Attles broke out swinging behind the basket. Braun suffered a cut lip.

Rodgers Picks Up Stool

Play resumed after referee Sid Borgia ruled there would be no fouls despite the battling. However, less than a minute later, Warrior Rodgers picked up the same stool when he was threatened by Boston's Jim Loscutoff. When a fan tried to get at Rodgers, he was intercepted by a police sergeant and that fan plus two others were hustled out. Once again there were no fouls called.

Thirty seconds later, Boston's Heinsohn rammed Philadelphia's Ten Luckenbill and Heinsohn was immediately disqualified.

Schmidt Reported OK

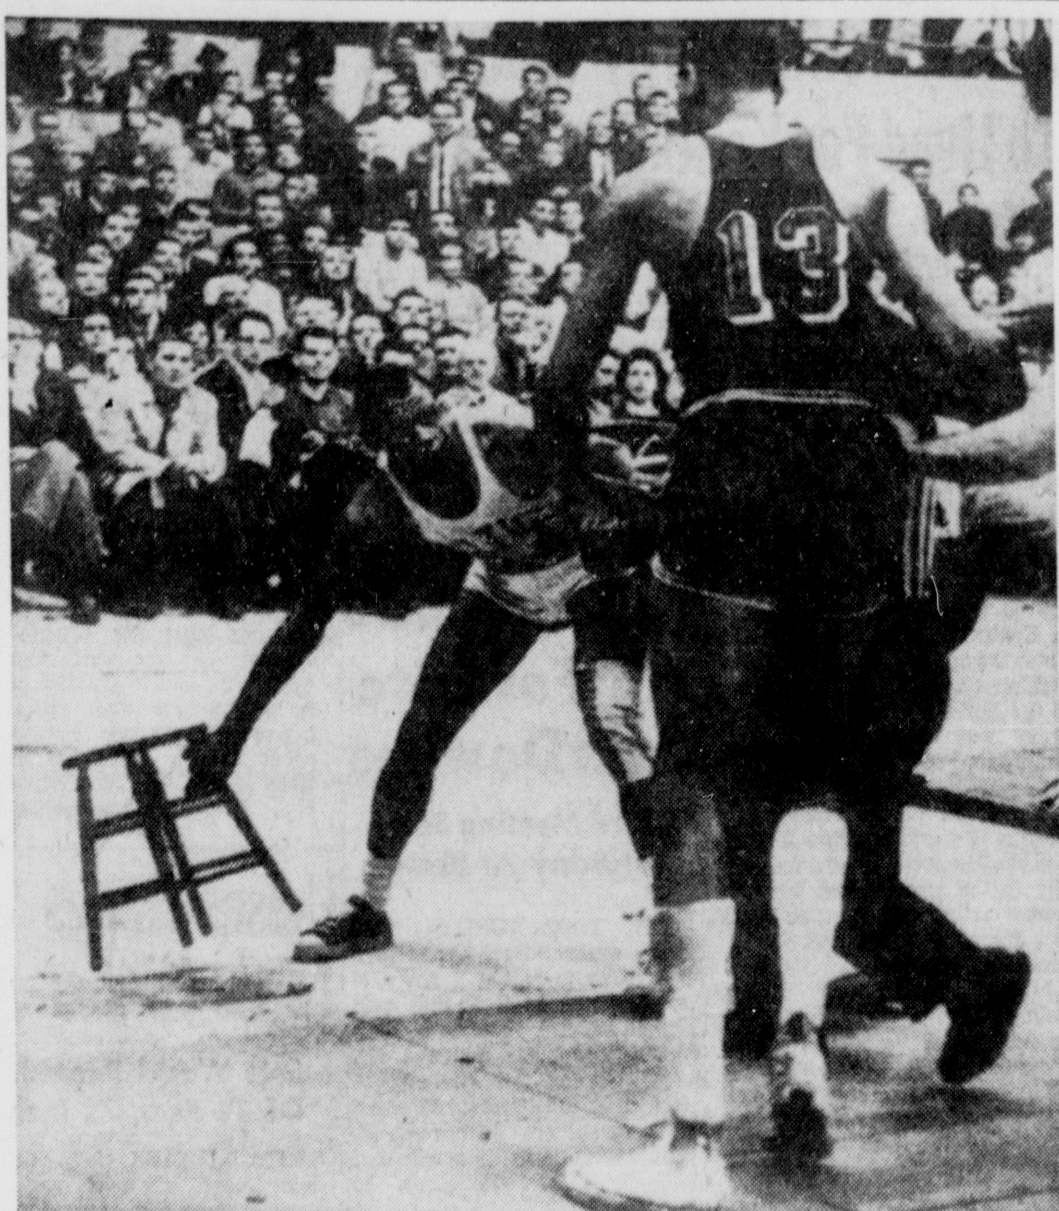

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Rain cancelled Washington's exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday but the day brought a ray of sunlight for the Senators.

The club received word from Washington that catcher Bob Schmidt would be available for opening day. Schmidt, first-string catcher, suffered a broken finger on his throwing hand last week when struck by a foul tip. The first report indicated he could be out for two months.

ALL-AROUND MAN — Gil Hodges broke into the major leagues as a third baseman and eventually played every infield position except shortstop, as well as catcher and the outfield.

Pistons Prolong NBA Series, Beat Lakers, 132-125

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The revitalized Detroit Pistons prolonged the Western Division finals of the National Basketball Association by whipping the Los Angeles Lakers 132-125 Saturday night before 8,263 fans.

The victory trimmed the Lakers lead to 3-2 in the best-of-seven series, which resumes Tuesday night at Detroit. It was the first time the Pistons have defeated the Lakers in the Sports Arena. The Pistons momentarily lost their poise in their last quarter but their earlier 30-point lead was too great an advantage for Los Angeles to overcome.

Bartlesville Wins AAU Title, Defeats Denver Quint, 70-59

DENVER (AP) — Bartlesville, Okla., under the guidance of playmaker Gary Thompson, rapped Denver 70-59 Saturday night in the National AAU Basketball Tournament championship highlighted by a two-minute fist fight between the players.

The Oklahoma Oilers outclassed the hometown favorites before 8,200 fans who earlier saw Akron, Ohio, trample the U.S. Marines 87-74 for third place.

The high point of the title game came with seven minutes to play when Denver's Harvey Salt started swinging on Jerry Shipp of Bartlesville after a foul was whistled.

Salt took a couple of swings before officials and teammates grabbed him.

Denver lagged by 13 points in the first half, but recovered in the late stages of the game after scoring only five points in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

Corum Will Welcome 70 Candidates Today

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach Gene Corum is expected to welcome about 70 candidates Monday at the scheduled opening of spring football drills.

The squad will include 23 lettermen and 20 prospects from last season's outstanding freshman team. Corum will have plenty of experienced personnel on hand, including 10 of the 11 players who started the first game of the 1961 season.

The Mountaineers won four games and lost six last year and Corum is looking for an improved season next fall. Two of the West Virginia wins last season came over Army and arch-rival Pitt.

West Virginia will be well equipped at fullback and center but is expected to be a little weak at the end positions.

West Virginia opens against Vanderbilt followed by games with Virginia Tech, Boston University, Pitt, George Washington, Oregon State, William & Mary, Penn State, The Citadel and Syracuse.

Jay Gives Up Three Runs In 10th Frame

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals scored three runs in each of the ninth and 10th innings Sunday to register a 7-4 victory over the New York Mets. Jay Hook, who was the victim of an eight-run inning in his last outing, gave up the three runs in the 10th and was charged with his third defeat.

The Cardinals trailed the Mets, 3-1, going into the ninth when they erupted for five straight singles that gave them a 4-3 lead. But Ed Bouchee pinch hit a homer for New York in the bottom half to send the game into extra innings.

Hook, who now has an earned run average of 12.38, was tagged for consecutive singles by Julian Javier, Bill White and Red Schoendienst, plus a double by Gene Oliver, in the 10th inning.

Emerson and Laver teamed to win the men's doubles title, turning back Wolfgang Stuck of Germany and Mike Sangster of Britain in the final 6-3, 7-5.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Big Bill Bridges scored 36 points and grabbed 15 rebounds Sunday to lead the Kansas City Steers to a 126-115 victory over the Cleveland Pipers in the opening game of their best-of-five series for the American Basketball League championship.

Bridges, a 6-5, 235-pound center from the University of Kansas, hit 13 of 21 shots from the field to set the pace for the hot-shooting Steers, who cashed in on 58.7 per cent.

Then Maurice King, Nick Mantis and Larry Stoverman hit three quick baskets to put the game out of reach.

The Steers, who won the first half championship and were second half Western Division champions relied on their three big men, Bridges, Stoverman and Gene Tornholen for their scoring punch.

Stoverman had 25 points and Tornholen had 7 of 8 from the field and 21 points.

Cleveland stayed in contention with 6-9 Connie Dierking working well under the basket and Johnny Cox and Dick Barnett hitting consistently from the outside.

College Games Set For Keyser And Frostburg

PVC Opens Tuesday; Mt. Union, Altoona, Salem Are Visitors

Seven Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap for this week as the schoolboy baseball season gets under way in the tri-state area.

Three college games also appear on this week's program.

The 14-school P.V.C. race will be launched Tuesday with Fort Ashby at Keyser, Romney at Paw Paw and Mathias at Circleville. Mathias, coached by Hoy Dove, Jr., won the league title last year with a 10-0 record. Petersburg was the runner-up with 8-1 and Southern of Oakland finished in third place with seven wins and one loss.

Beall Opens Wednesday

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone's Beall High School tossers are scheduled to kick off the lid Wednesday at Fort Ashby. Beall is a member of the P.V.C. but has been unable to schedule enough games in that circuit to qualify for the championship race. The Mountaineers have succeeded in booking home-and-home games with Fort Ashby and LaSalle and have been dickering with Elk Garden and Southern of Oakland for additional contests. A team must play home-and-home games with at least four schools to qualify for the P.V.C. race.

Keyser is at Romney Thursday while on Friday Capon Bridge hosts Mathias and Paw Paw visits Fort Ashby.

Mt. Union At Potomac

Potomac State College makes its home debut Wednesday playing host to the Catamounts of Alliance, Ohio. The Catamounts, who split a doubleheader with Montgomery Junior College last week, also play Salem College at Keyser on Friday.

Frostburg State, victorious over Hagerstown Junior College last week, will entertain Altoona Campus in the Bobcats' home opener on Thursday.

The Allegany County High School League season does not get under way until Thursday, April 19. The Bedford County League of which Hyndman High School is a member opens its season on April 10.

Spahn Is Battered As Cubs Win, 16-6

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—The Chicago Cubs unleashed their most devastating offensive of the spring Sunday when they battered Warren Spahn, Bob Hendley and Cecil Butler for 20 hits to crush the Milwaukee Braves, 16-6.

Spahn, who is finding it a very rough spring, was rocked for 10 runs and 15 of the hits in six innings. One of the hits off Spahn was a two-run homer by Ernie Banks.

The two Cub rookies, Lou Brock and Ken Hubbs, continued impressively. Lou was hit flush off his plastic helmet by Spahn in the first inning, but retaliated by poling the ball over the scoreboard in right center in the fourth. However, it went for only a triple. Brock failed to touch the plate, according to umpire Ed Vargo.

NEW DEAL FOR CARDS—It is a new deal for the Cards, at that, for Red Schoendienst, who quit at the end of the 1961 season and is listed as a coach, will be a player-off the new Card uniform this year, one which carries the name of the players, a touch the White Sox started. Tigers Passed Up Colanlot, Detroit Sandlot Product

DETROIT (UPI)—Dave De Busschere, baseball and basketball star at the University of Detroit, Sunday signed a bonus contract with the Chicago White Sox for an estimated $65,000.

White Sox General Manager Ed Short signed De Busschere, a six-foot, six-inch hurler who is a product of the local sandlots, from under the noses of the Detroit Tigers.

Short flew to Detroit from Chicago shortly after noon and needed only about three hours to get De Busschere's signature on a White Sox contract.

Paret Remains In Coma Eighth Straight Day

NEW YORK (UPI)—Benny (Kid) Paret, the stricken former welterweight champion, remained in a coma for the eighth straight day at Roosevelt Hospital Sunday.

The courageous fight against death being waged by the 24-year-old Cuban boxer has given friends and relatives new hope that he may recover, but a hospital spokesman is not as optimistic.

"Although Paret is fighting hard, this doesn't mean that his chances for a complete recovery are any better," the spokesman said. "His condition hasn't changed basically for the past few days. He's still in critical condition."

The spokesman admitted that Paret "makes occasional movements," which he described as "semi-purposeful," but he declined to estimate when the boxer will regain consciousness.

Paret has been in a coma since he suffered severe brain injuries in his title fight with Emile Griffith at Madison Square Garden March 24.

Chicago White Sox Maul Cincinnati, 10-6

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox reeled off their fifth straight exhibition victory Sunday, mauling the Cincinnati Reds, 10-6, with an 11-hit attack which included two doubles by outfielder Floyd Robinson.

Early Wynn and Ray Herbert handled the pitching for Chicago, with Wynn going the first three innings. Though Wynn gave up six hits in his third appearance of the spring, he threw hard throughout and said later that there were no ill effects.

Willy Mairesse Wins Brussels Grand Prix

BRUSSELS (AP)—Willy Mairesse of Belgium, driving the only Ferrari in the race, won the Brussels Grand Prix, run in three heats Sunday.

Sweden's Joachim Bonnier, driving a Porsche, was second with 10 points.

Canadiens Lose, 4-1

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Blackhawks' attack exploded Sunday night before steller goal tending by Glenn Hall for a 4-1 triumph over the Montreal Canadiens in their semi-final Stanley Cup playoff series.

It was Chicago's first win after two losses at Montreal in the best of seven series and meant that the Black Hawks would tie the series before the games switch back to Montreal.

Ohio State Cops 11th Swim Title In Twenty Years

Rings Up 92 Points, Trojans 2nd With 46

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Powerful Ohio State sits on the NCAA swimming throne today for the 11th time in 20 years, having swamped all competition in the 39th annual three-day meet which ended here Saturday.

The Bucks regained in impressive fashion the title which they last held in 1956.

In the 16 events over the three days, Ohioans racked up seven victories, placed in five others and in two events—the 200-yard butterfly and three-meter diving—had three among the final six finishers.

In piling up 92 points, Ohio State doubled the total of runner-up Southern California. Following the Trojans' 46 total were:

Minnesota 41½, Michigan 32, Princeton 29, Michigan State 20, Cincinnati 19, Yale 18, Southern Methodist 14½, Illinois 11, Villanova 10, Purdue 9, Harvard 10, North Carolina and North Carolina State 8, Denver and Oklahoma 5, Navy 4, Florida State and Southern Illinois 3, Bowling Green, Washington and Iowa 2, and Utah, Texas, Florida and Kenyon 1 each.

Indiana, the Big Ten champion and rated the most powerful swimming aggregation ever assembled by any college, was ineligible for the NCAA meet because the school is under suspension for football recruiting violations.

He was the territorial draft choice of the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association and is expected to sign a two-year contract with the Pistons for about $15,000 a year.

Short said De Busschere's decision to play pro basketball "didn't alter our offer one bit. We don't believe playing basketball will make him less effective as a baseball player."

Short said De Busschere will play with a group of college all-stars against the Harlem Globetrotters in Detroit next week end and will report to the White Sox Friday, April 13, at Kansas City for one week.

"He'll also be with us during the Easter vacation and on weekends until the end of May when he completes his studies towards his degree from the University of Detroit," Short said.

Short said as far as he knew all 20 major league teams were interested in De Busschere, with Milwaukee and the Tigers the leading rivals of Chicago for the services of the strong-throwing right-hander.

Giants Shake Jinx, Trim Red Sox, 7-4

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—After three successive losses to the Boston Red Sox, the San Francisco Giants Sunday finally sneaked over a 7-4 victory on the strength of the pitching of Juan Marichal.

Marichal, the No. 1 choice to start against Milwaukee in Candlestick Park April 10, went six smooth innings, struck out six and allowed one earned run in three charged to him. Stu Miller cleaned up without a serious challenge.

Orlando Cepeda, now hitting .383, hit his sixth homer, and Felipe Alou his sixth and seventh, all off starter and loser Mike Fornieles. Alou, who has hit four into the desert beyond the fences, is now averaging .483.

Cleveland Evens Up Series With Dodgers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The Cleveland Indians scored two runs in the last of the ninth to beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 6-5, Sunday and even the exhibition series between the teams at one game each.

Then, after a walk filled the bases, pinch hitter Doc Edwards hit a sacrifice fly to center allowing Power to score the winning run.

Ridan, Florida Derby Winner, To Head For Kentucky Today

Beat Cicada By Nose For $85,800 Purse; Others Go North

By GENE PLOWDEN Associated Press Sports Writer MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Their Florida winter campaigns over, candidates for the Triple Crown events headed Sunday for Kentucky and the Derby the first week in May, then the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan proved he will be tough to beat in Kentucky, Maryland and New York when he whipped Meadow Stable's Cicada by a narrow nose in the $125,800 Florida Derby Saturday and survived a stewards inquiry for the top prize of $85,800.

Ridan, out of the money only once in 12 starts and that through a disqualification, caught the fleet filly in the stretch, lost the lead momentarily, then battled back and prevailed at the end.

Manuel Ycaza, on Ridan, claimed Cicada came out to hit his mount and the stewards pondered the case, but did not change the order of finish as they had done in the Flamingo Stakes when Sunrise County was disqualified, making Prego the winner, and in the Gulfstream Park Handicap when Yorky was dropped from first to second behind Jay Fox.

Willie Shoemaker, on Cicada, agreed that his mount drifted out a bit but he said, "When Ridan came alongside, she fought him gamely." He added, "I'd like to ride her back anytime against the colts."

Leroy Jolley, Ridan's trainer, said his colt will be sent to Kentucky Monday.

Cicada and her stablemate, Sir Gaylord, who missed the Flamingo because of an ankle injury, will be sent to Kentucky in midweek, said trainer J.H. Casey Hayes.

Dick Tiger Seeks Title Shot After Victory Over Hank

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nigeria's Dick Tiger, his status as the No. 1 middleweight challenger enhanced by Saturday night's easy victory over Henry Hank, called Sunday for a shot at either of the mud-died division's "champions."

Tiger, 33, made his claim to a title chance after a lop-sided, unanimous 10-round decision over Hank in their nationally televised middleweight contenders' bout at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

"I think I can beat either of 'em and I'm sure I've earned the right for the chance," he said.

Terry Downes of Great Britain, the New York-Massachusetts European champion is defending his share of the middleweight title against Paul Pender of Boston next Saturday night. Gene Fullmer is the recognized NBA middleweight king.

Tiger, who has won 11 straight bouts, jolted Hank with his left hook almost at will and never was in trouble against the flashy Detroit boxer who numbered 36 knockout victims among his previous opponents.

Seven Games Scheduled As PVC Opens Baseball Season This Week

College Games Set For Keyser And Frostburg

PVC Opens Tuesday; Mt. Union, Altoona, Salem Are Visitors

Seven Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap for this week as the schoolboy baseball season gets under way in the tri-state area.

Three college games also appear on this week's program. The 14-school P.V.C. race will be launched Tuesday with Fort Ashby at Keyser, Romney at Paw Paw and Mathias at Circleville. Mathias, coached by Hoy Dove, Jr., won the league title last year with a 10-0 record. Petersburg was the runner-up with 8-1 and Southern of Oakland finished in third place with seven wins and one loss.

Beall Opens Wednesday

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone's Beall High School tossers are scheduled to kick off the lid Wednesday at Fort Ashby. Beall is a member of the P.V.C. but has been unable to schedule enough games in that circuit to qualify for the championship race. The Mountaineers have succeeded in booking home-and-home games with Fort Ashby and LaSalle and have been dicking with Elk Garden and Southern of Oakland for additional contests. A team must play home-and-home games with at least four schools to qualify for the P.V.C. race.

Keyser is at Romney Thursday while on Friday Capon Bridge hosts Mathias and Paw Paw visits Fort Ashby.

MT. Union At Potomac

Potomac State College makes its home debut Wednesday playing host to Union College of Alliance, Ohio. The Catamounts, who split a doubleheader with Montgomery Junior College last week, also play Salem College at Keyser on Friday.

Frostburg State, victorious over Hagerstown Junior College last week, will entertain Altoona Campus in the Bobcats' home opener on Thursday.

The Allegany County High School League season does not get under way until Thursday, April 19. The Bedford County League of which Hyndman High School is a member opens its season on April 10.

Here's the order in which the P.V.C. teams finished last season:

School	W.	L.	Pct.
Mathias	10	0	1.000
Petersburg	8	1	.889
Southern	7	1	.875
Moorefield	7	3	.700

Romney	4	4	.500
Wardensville	3	4	.429

Spahn Is Battered As Cubs Win, 16-6

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) —The Chicago Cubs unleashed their most devastating offensive of the spring Sunday when they battered Warren Spahn, Bob Hendley and Cecil Butler for 20 hits to crush the Milwaukee Braves, 16-6.

Spahn, who is finding it a very rough spring, was rocked for 10 runs and 15 of the hits in six innings. One of the hits off Spahn was a two-run homer by Ernie Banks.

The two Cub rookies, Lou Brock and Ken Hubbs, continued impressively. Lou was hit flush off his plastic helmet by Spahn in the first inning, but retaliated by poling the ball over the scoreboard in right center in the fourth. However, it went for only a triple. Brock failed to touch the plate, according to umpire Ed Vargo.

NEW DEAL FOR CARDS — It is a new deal for the Cards, at that, for Red Schoendienst, who quit at the end of the 1961 season and is listed as a coach, will be a player-coach this year. Red shows off the new Card uniform this year, one which carries the name of the players, a touch the White Sox started. Scene is St. Petersburg, Fla., where Cards train.

White Sox Pay $65,000 Bonus To De Busschere

Tigers Passed Up Collegian, Detroit Sandlot Product

DETROIT (UPI) — Dave De Busschere, baseball and basketball star at the University of Detroit, Sunday signed a bonus contract with the Chicago White Sox for an estimated $65,000.

White Sox General Manager Ed Short signed De Busschere, a six-foot, six-inch hurler who is a product of the local sandlots, from under the noses of the Detroit Tigers.

Short flew to Detroit from Chicago shortly after noon and needed only about three hours to get De Busschere's signature on a White Sox contract.

Paret Remains In Coma Eighth Straight Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Benny (Kid) Paret, the stricken former welterweight champion, remained in a coma for the eighth straight day at Roosevelt Hospital Sunday.

The courageous fight against death being waged by the 24-year-old Cuban boxer has given friends and relatives new hope that he may recover, but a hospital spokesman is not as optimistic.

"Although Paret is fighting hard, this doesn't mean that his chances for a complete recovery are any better," the spokesman said. "His condition hasn't changed basically for the past few days. He's still in critical condition."

The spokesman admitted that Paret "makes occasional movements," which he described as "semi-purposeful," but he declined to estimate when the boxer will regain consciousness.

Paret has been in a coma since he suffered severe brain injuries in his title fight with Emile Grif- fith at Madison Square Garden March 24.

Chicago White Sox Maul Cincinnati, 10-6

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) —The Chicago White Sox reeled off their fifth straight exhibition victory Sunday, mauling the Cincinnati Reds, 10-6, with an 11-hit attack which included two doubles by outfielder Floyd Robinson.

Early Wynn and Ray Herbert handled the pitching for Chicago, with Wynn going the first three innings. Though Wynn gave up six hits in his third appearance of the spring, he threw hard throughout and said later that there were no ill effects.

Willy Mairesse Wins Brussels Grand Prix

BRUSSELS (AP) — Willy Mairesse of Belgium, driving the only Ferrari in the race, won the Brussels Grand Prix, run in three heats Sunday.

Mairesse finished third in the first heat and won the next two for a low total of five points. Each race was at 62.226 miles.

Sweden's Joachim Bonnier, driving a Porsche, was second with 10 points.

Canadiens Lose, 4-1

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Blackhawks' attack exploded Sunday night before stellar goal tending by Glenn Hall for a 4-1 triumph over the Montreal Canadiens in their semi-final Stanley Cup playoff series.

It was Chicago's first win after two losses at Montreal in the best of seven series and meant that a Black Hawks would tie the series before the games switch back to Montreal.

Ohio State Cops 11th Swim Title In Twenty Years

Rings Up 92 Points, Trojans 2nd With 46

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Powerful Ohio State sits on the NCAA swimming throne today for the 11th time in 20 years, having swamped all competition in the 39th annual three-day meet which ended here Sunday.

The Bucks regained in impressive fashion the title which they last held in 1956.

In the 16 events over the three days, Ohioans racked up seven victories, placed in five others and in two events—the 200-yard butterfly and three-meter diving—had three among the final six finishers.

In piling up 92 points, Ohio State doubled the total of runner-up Southern California. Following the Trojans' 46 total were:

Minnesota 41½, Michigan 32, Princeton 29, Michigan State 20, Cincinnati 19, Yale 18, Southern Methodist 14½, Illinois 11, Villanova 10, Purdue 9, Harvard, North Carolina and North Carolina State 8, Denver and Oklahoma 5, Navy 4, Florida State and Southern Illinois 3, Bowling Green, Washington and Iowa 2, and Utah, Texas, Florida and Kenyon 1 each.

Indiana, the Big Ten champion and rated the most powerful swimming aggregation ever assembled by any college, was ineligible for the NCAA meet because the school is under suspension for football recruiting violations.

Boxer Called "Big Bluff"

Former Countryman Insults Lavarante

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Argentine heavyweight Alejandro Lavarante, still hurting from Friday night's knockout by Archie Moore, Sunday got insulted about it.

The giant fighter walked into a doughnut shop across from his hotel and heard a former countryman call him "a big bluff" in Spanish.

Witnesses said Lavarante merely placed his big right hand atop the man and brushed him off. Enraged, the name caller threatened the fighter with a cup of hot coffee, patrons added.

At this, Andres Palacios, a friend of Lavarante, scuffled with the man, who later fled. Lavarante, meanwhile, acted as peacemaker and stopped the fight.

Gustavo Huerta, Los Angeles correspondent for a Mexico City newspaper who witnessed the incident, said the man's national pride was hurt because of Lavarante's defeat by the light heavyweight champion.

Lavarante told Huerta that the man was once a Buenos Aires garbage collector, who now lives in Los Angeles.

"When he first came to this country, it was I who befriended him — and now he turns against me," Huerta quoted Lavarante as saying.

Westernport Opens Series With Wilson

Westernport American Legion, winner of 41 consecutive league games over two seasons, and boasting a 22-0 record this season, opens a best-of-three final playoff series with the Wilson Hardware Company tonight at 8 o'clock at Fort Hill High School.

Don Moran and his mates have beaten Wilson's four straight times in the County League this season by scores of 58-40, 63-47, 65-48 and 67-50 and will be aiming to sew up this series in two straight.

The second game of the series is set for Thursday at Fort Hill.

Rangers Win, 5-4

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Rangers came from behind twice Sunday night to beat Toronto 5-4 and gained a second life in their best-of-seven semifinal Stanley Cup series with the Leafs.

The Rangers, in the playoffs for the first time in four seasons, lost the first two games in Toronto and now trail 2-1. The fourth game will be played in New York Tuesday night.

Ridan, Florida Derby Winner, To Head For Kentucky Today

Beat Cicada By Nose For $85,800 Purse; Others Go North

By GENE PLOWDEN Associated Press Sports Writer MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Their Florida winter campaigns over, candidates for the Triple Crown events headed Sunday for Kentucky and the Derby the first week in May, then the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan proved he will be tough to beat in Kentucky, Maryland and New York when he whipped Meadow Stable's Cicada by a narrow nose in the $125,800 Florida Derby Saturday and survived a stewards inquiry for the top prize of $85,800.

Ridan, out of the money only once in 12 starts and that through a disqualification, caught the fleet filly in the stretch, lost the lead momentarily, then battled back and prevailed at the end.

Disallow Foul Claim

Mmanuel Ycaza, on Ridan, claimed Cicada came out to hit his mount and the stewards pondered the case, but did not change the order of finish as they had done in the Flamingo Stakes when Sunrise County was disqualified, making Prego the winner, and in the Gulfstream Park Handicap when Yorky was dropped from first to second behind Jay Fox.

Willie Shoemaker, on Cicada, agreed that his mount drifted out a bit but he said, "When Ridan came alongside, she fought him gamely." He added, "I'd like to ride her back anytime against the colts."

Leroy Jolley, Ridan's trainer, said his colt will be sent to Kentucky Monday.

Cicada and her stablemate, Sir Gaylord, who missed the Flamingo because of an ankle injury, will be sent to Kentucky in midweek, said trainer J.H. (Casey) Hayes.

Dick Tiger Seeks Title Shot After Victory Over Hank

NEW YORK (UPI) —Nigeria's Dick Tiger, his status as the No. 1 middleweight challenger enhanced by Saturday night's easy victory over Henry Hank, called Sunday for a shot at either of the mud-died division's "champions."

Tiger, 33, made his claim to a title chance after a lop-sided, unanimous 10-round decision over Hank in their nationally televised middleweight contenders' bout at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

"I think I can beat either of 'em and I'm sure I've earned the right for the chance," he said.

Terry Downes of Great Britain, the New York-Massachusetts, European champion is defending his share of the middleweight title against Paul Pender of Boston next Saturday night. Gene Fullmer is the recognized NBA middleweight king.

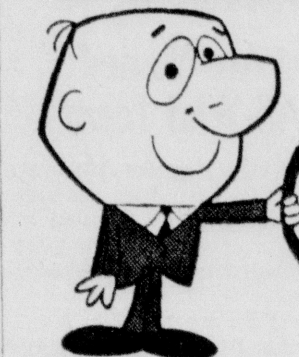

Tiger, who has won 11 straight bouts, jolted Hank with his left hook almost at will and never was in trouble against the flashy Detroit boxer who numbered 36 knockout victims among his previous opponents.

Rain Halts Game

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Rain halted the exhibition game between the Minnesota Twins and the Philadelphia Phillies in the fourth inning Sunday with the Twins ahead, 4-3.

Ted Sadowski of the Twins opposed Jim Owens on the mound. Tony Gonzalez homered for the Phils.

Uelses Hopes To Go Higher

Sets World Record Of 16 Feet, ¾ Inch

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) —John Uelses, the only man in history to have pole vaulted over the magical 16-foot barrier outdoors — or indoors — is confident that he can go another half-foot higher before the finish of the year.

The power-armed ex-Marine sailed into sports history Saturday when he exceeded the listed world record with a vault of 16 feet ¾ inches at the 24th annual Santa Barbara relay.

It bettered the world mark of 15-10½ set last year by George Davies. Davies finished third Saturday, clearing 15-4½.

It was Uelses' third time over the mythical barrier that begins with 16 feet, but the first time it had been done outdoors. His two other 16-foot vaults came during indoor meets earlier this year.

When the 24-year-old Uelses soared over the bar on his second attempt, it equalled his all-time best of 16½ which was set Feb. 3 at the Boston AA games in Boston Garden. A night earlier, Feb. 2, the German-born vaulter had become the first person ever to get over 16 feet.

Pender is 31, six years older than Downes. The Massachusetts batter has won 39 of 47 pro fights and scored 20 kayoes.

NOTICE OF ENACTMENT OF CHARTER RESOLUTION MIDLAND

Resolution No. 1 of the Mayor and Council of the Town of Midland was passed on March 12, 1962 pursuant to the Authority of Article 21B of the Constitution of Maryland, and Article 21B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), to repeal in its entirety the present Charter of the Town of Midland, as enacted by the 1952 Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, Chapter 336, as amended, and to enact in lieu thereof the Charter of the Town of Midland, as contained in Article 21B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), titled "Municipal Corporation Charter," with the following exceptions:

Whereas the Model Municipal Corporation Charter provides for a Mayor and six Councilmen, with the Councilmen's terms of office being staggered;

The new Midland Charter provides for a two-year residence requirement for property qualifications for all elected town officers instead of a one-year residence requirement and no property qualifications as provided for in the Model Municipal Corporation Charter.

The new Midland Charter provides that the Council shall meet at least once each month and at least once each month thereafter.

Whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides that no ordinance shall be passed at the meeting at which it is introduced, the new Midland Charter allows an ordinance to be passed at the meeting at which introduced.

The new Midland Charter provides for the publication of a newspaper having general circulation in the Town in lieu of the requirement that the ordinance be published as is provided in the Model Municipal Charter.

Under the new Midland Charter the Mayor does not have the power of veto, and he has the power to veto on all issues coming before the Council.

Section 15 of the Model Municipal Charter entitled "Referendum" has been omitted in the new Midland Charter.

Instead of a Board of Election Supervisors to handle all registration and election duties as provided for in the Model Municipal Charter, the Town Council assumes all registration and election duties under the new Midland Charter.

The new Midland Charter provides for permanent registration of persons qualified to vote on the second Monday in April of every even numbered year.

Whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for primary elections the new Midland Charter provides that the Mayor and Council shall hold "nominating meetings" before every municipal election to select candidates for all Town elective offices.

The new Midland Charter provides for municipal elections every even numbered year whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for elections every second odd numbered year.

The new Midland Charter provides for the appointment of a separate clerk, treasurer and tax collector whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for one person with the title of Clerk-Treasurer to perform all the duties of clerk to the Council, chief financial officer and tax collector.

The new Midland Charter provides that the books of the Town shall be audited annually by a public accountant.

Whereas the Model Municipal Charter provides for a permissive merit system, the new Midland Charter makes no provision for a merit system.

Resolution No. 1 adopted March 12, 1962, shall become effective on May 1, 1962, unless proper petition for referendum is filed before April 1, 1962 in accordance with the provisions of Section 13, Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended).

Lionel O. Baker, Mayor and Council of Midland. David J. Williams, Clerk. March 19-26-April 2-5.

Two Arrested In County Face Check Charges

Men To Be Taken To Harford Co.

Two men who were arrested over the weekend at a roadblock near Cresaptown and interrogated by police in connection with the passing of bad checks in at least four states will be turned over today to Harford County Sheriff Raymond Fulkner.

Authorities identified the men as Maurice Albert Moore, 40, of 131 East 31st Street, New York, and James Leroy Benjamin, 19, of RD 3, Pasadena, who admitted passing bad checks in New York, Maryland and West Virginia.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police at LaVale barracks, questioned the men along with Tfc. Milton G. Hart, criminal investigator. He said teletype messages were received at the barracks from three towns in Connecticut which are interested in questioning the two men.

Surveillance on the part of Patrolman James House of the Keyser Police Department led to the arrest of the two men who were picked up at a roadblock on U.S. Route 220 near Cresaptown.

Watched By Policemen

The Keyser policeman received a complaint from McCoolle Men's Store in McCoolle where the two men reportedly passed a fraudulent check for $95.54. He became suspicious of two men and kept them under surveillance. The policeman noticed them get into a Keyser cab, and he notified Maryland State Police to pick them up for questioning.

Trooper Roger Reynolds of LaVale barracks made the initial arrest at the roadblock and an investigation revealed the men had three other checks in their possession and 22 more in their automobile, each in the amount of $95.54. The checks were drawn on the Union Trust Company of Baltimore against the account of The Coastal Marine Sales Company.

Wanted In Connecticut

During questioning by Sgt. Baker and Trooper Hart, the men reportedly admitted passing checks in three states. Later, Baker received information from Darien, New Canaan and Westport, Conn. authorities that they wish to question the pair.

Cpl. F. W. Armstrong of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser, who also figured in the investigation, reported last night that a detainer has been filed in connection with the passing of the check in Keyser.

The men said they passed three checks in Nassau County, N. Y., three in Bel Air, one in Baltimore and one in Glen Burnie, besides the one on which they were picked up at the roadblock. State Police said Moore claimed to have bought "30 or 40" of the checks from a man named "Charlie" whom he met in a New York restaurant. He told police he bought the $95.54 checks for about $25 each.

The checks, according to State Police, are authentic-looking and are made out by machine, except for signatures.

Several Names Used

There is a possibility the men may face forgery charges since a number of names were used in signing the checks. Names used were Eugene C. Baxter, Charles A. Baxter and William C. Miller, each of whom was identified on the check as president of the Coastal Marine Sales. All of the checks were said to be made out to Moore.

Authorities said the actual owner of the sales company, John R. Stoker, of Wittman, Talbot County, has been receiving the bad checks on his firm since March 21.

The other states are expected to file detainers against the two men pending disposition of the Maryland charges, authorities said.

Sgt. Baker said the two men are not wanted in Allegany County in connection with the passing of bad checks.

Mahoney Offers Jobs For Votes, O'Connor Says

Cites Letter Asking Baltimorean's Aid

By The Associated Press

George P. Mahoney, Democratic candidate for governor, was accused Sunday of offering state jobs in return for support in the May 15 primary.

Making the charge was Herbert R. O'Connor Jr., statewide chairman for the ticket headed by Gov. Tawes, whose major opposition for the nomination includes Mahoney.

O'Connor backed up his claim with a letter Mahoney's Baltimore City campaign manager allegedly wrote to James E. Chew (3322 Lake Ave.) of Baltimore. The letter read, in part:

"Be assured that if you will lend your support in our behalf that you will be remembered when George Mahoney takes office on Jan. 1.

"We want you and need your help and advice. I trust that I will have the pleasure of hearing from you either by phone or letter in the immediate future."

O'Connor, in a statement issued through Tawes Headquarters in Baltimore, said Chew directed his attention to the letter.

The Tawes spokesman said Mahoney was obligated to "explain what is obviously an attempt to work out a deal in exchange for political support."

"Reports have persistently flowed into our office concerning these activities but we discounted them until this letter was brought to our attention," O'Connor said.

"Paving Ring" Questioned The Tawes forces, taking the offensive in their running battle with Mahoney, asked the Baltimore county Saturday to "explain his role in Baltimore City's alleged paving ring operations."

The request came from Del. W. Dale Hess, D-Harford, a Tawes supporter, in a statement released through the governor's headquarters.

Hess said a study of 95 paving contracts awarded by the city from March 3, 1958, to Aug. 9, 1961, showed only a slight percentage difference in the amount of money paid to seven paving contractors.

"The firm receiving the most money," the legislator said, "is the one in which Mr. Mahoney is a partner."

"There are serious implications of an antitrust nature here, and I think it incumbent upon Mr. Mahoney to explain his position since he is now seeking a position of public trust."

Mahoney in a reply flatly denied any connection with a paving ring. He said Tawes was "sinking to new tactics of desperation in the campaign."

"Shopworn, Discredited" This shopworn and thoroughly-discredited issue has been raised on each and every occasion that I have run for public office in the last 12 years," said Mahoney.

A supporter of David Hume, a third major candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, attacked Mahoney for his stand on legalized gambling in Southern Maryland.

Meanwhile, Mahoney once again attacked the Tawes Administration record on the savings and loan failures, education, mental health, prisons and fiscal programs.

Driver Pinned In Wreckage Of Rig On Rt. 50

A 40-year-old Virginia tractor-trailer driver, who was pinned in the wreckage of his truck for about half an hour yesterday morning along Allegany Front on U. S. Route 50, was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night in Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser, W. Va.

Alvin Jones of Imperio, Va., was X-rayed at the hospital where he was admitted at 11:30 a. m. for observation. The accident occurred about nine miles south-west of Keyser near the bottom of the mountain.

Two unidentified young boys were reported to have extricated the injured man from the wreckage and a Baltimore nurse was credited with stopping to give the man first aid until an ambulance arrived.

The driver reported he had lain upside down in the wrecked cab, one of his legs through the windshield and the other under his face, which was pinned to the cab by the emergency brake.

Fuel was draining down over the man while he was trapped in the cab, which fortunately did not burst into flames. Gasoline and diesel fuel spewed all over the immediate area, according to authorities, who said the tractor-trailer, loaded with sheet metal, went out of control on a curve near Bill's Tavern.

The driver was reported to have tried to dodge hitting a car when he noticed his brakes failing. The tractor-trailer plowed through the guard rails and turned completely over.

Trooper Robert E. Noechel of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser investigated the accident.

Two Arrested In County Face Check Charges

Men To Be Taken To Harford Co.

Two men who were arrested over the weekend at a roadblock near Cresaptown and interrogated by police in connection with the passing of bad checks in at least four states will be turned over today to Harford County Sheriff Raymond Fulkner.

Authorities identified the men as Maurice Albert Moore, 40, of 131 East 31st Street, New York, and James Leroy Benjamin, 19, of RD 3, Pasadena, who admitted passing bad checks in New York, Maryland and West Virginia.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police at LaVale barracks, questioned the men along with Tfc. Milton G. Hart, criminal investigator. He said teletype messages were received at the barracks from three towns in Connecticut which are interested in questioning the two men.

Surveillance on the part of Patrolman James House of the Keyser Police Department led to the arrest of the two men who were picked up at a roadblock on U.S. Route 220 near Cresaptown.

Watched By Policemen

The Keyser policeman received a complaint from McCool Men's Store in McCool where the two men reportedly passed a fraudulent check for $95.54. He became suspicious of two men and kept them under surveillance. The policeman noticed them get into a Keyser cab, and he notified Maryland State Police to pick them up for questioning.

Trooper Roger Reynolds of LaVale barracks made the initial arrest at the roadblock and an investigation revealed the men had three other checks in their possession and 22 more in their automobile, each in the amount of $95.54. The checks were drawn on the Union Trust Company of Baltimore against the account of The Coastal Marine Sales Company.

Wanted In Connecticut

During questioning by Sgt. Baker and Trooper Hart, the men reportedly admitted passing checks in three states. Later, Baker received information from Darien, New Canaan and Westport, Conn. authorities that they wish to question the pair.

Cpl. F. W. Armstrong of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser, who also figured in the investigation, reported last night that a detainer has been filed in connection with the passing of the check in Keyser.

The men said they passed three checks in Nassau County, N. Y., three in Bel Air, one in Baltimore and one in Glen Burnie, besides the one on which they were picked up at the roadblock. State Police said Moore claimed to have bought "30 or 40" of the checks from a man named "Charlie" whom he met in a New York restaurant. He told police he bought the $95.54 checks for about $25 each.

The checks, according to State Police, are authentic-looking and are made out by machine, except for signatures.

Several Names Used

There is a possibility the men may face forgery charges since a number of names were used in signing the checks. Names used were Eugene C. Baxter, Charles A. Baxter and William C. Miller, each of whom was identified on the check as president of the Coastal Marine Sales. All of the checks were said to be made out to Moore.

Authorities said the actual owner of the sales company, John R. Stoker, of Witten, Talbot County, has been receiving the bad checks on his firm since March 21.

The other states are expected to file detainers against the two men pending disposition of the Maryland charges, authorities said.

Sgt. Baker said the two men are not wanted in Allegany County in connection with the passing of bad checks.
